Reaching

Reaching

A New System

Students Give Up Old Ways

Because of overcrowded campuses, the Los Angeles Board of Education, trying to relieve the problem, designated HPHS and two other area high schools as year round.

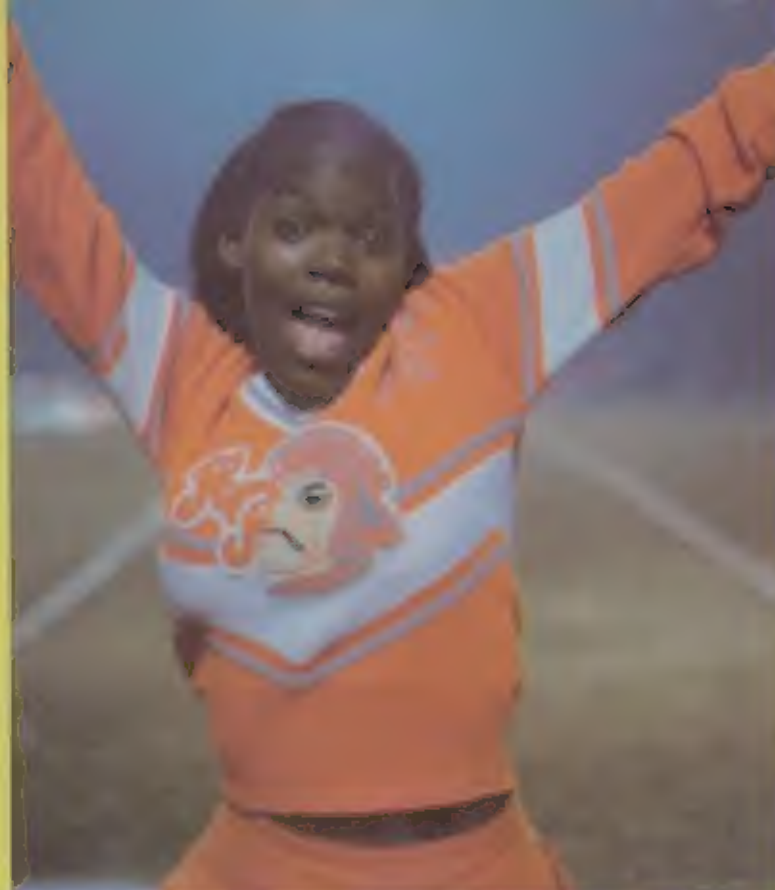

The student body and staff were split up into three groups, or tracks A, B, and C. Students were assigned to tracks by their residential area, not by personal preference, grade level, or needs. In some cases students that had gone to school together for years were suddenly split up. Every student felt the change personally and their reactions varied from resignation and disappointment to anticipation and enthusiasm. The latter being the minority.

Coming up with a theme for the 1982 El Recuerdo took a couple of months. After watching what was going on around us, the staff finally realized that the theme was staring us all in the face. Everyone on the campus was 'Reaching' for answers to their questions and looking for ways to somehow make year round school really work.

'Reaching' summed up the year. There were times, though, when students and faculty alike began to give up the fight, as though they were letting go of the string that was helping them through the year. The staff needed a visual element to express 'Reaching.' We chose balloons. They were flying at all school functions. They seemed to carry the 'Reaching' when it couldn't carry itself.

In the end, everyone made it through the year relatively well, and very much the way they had in the past — with some giving it their all, others getting away with as little as possible, and everyone 'Reaching.'

Reaching

Tis the Mester

And All is Not Well

Whatever happened to those good-ol' days in July bathing in the sun, getting up late, and not remembering what day of the week it was? Year-Round is what happened! It shattered all our anticipations for a crazy summer after half a year of work. So, we gave up our summer with some moans and groans hoping that would be enough sacrifice. Then came the Christmas Seasons.

While the world was saying 'Tis the season, Huntington Park High was saying 'Tis the mester! Spending Xmas-Eve in school was quite an experience. It brought us to realize how meaningful Christmas really is. Lucky for us, Mr. Goldstock posted a sign which informed the students as well as the administration that school was to be shut down for our long awaited Dec. 25.

As the year and holidays rolled by, the most evident Spartan Spirit was the participation of the student body during our football season. The great support our team received and the display of excitement in the crowd proved that Year-Round hadn't scarred our enthusiasm.

Reaching

Let's Get Physical

Which Part Are You

There are different parts to the human body, arms, legs, head, etc. . . . and each part functions differently but they still belong to the same body. Each of us were like a part of that body. We all had our similarities and our obvious differences; yet each of us were a part of a unique body — the Student Body.

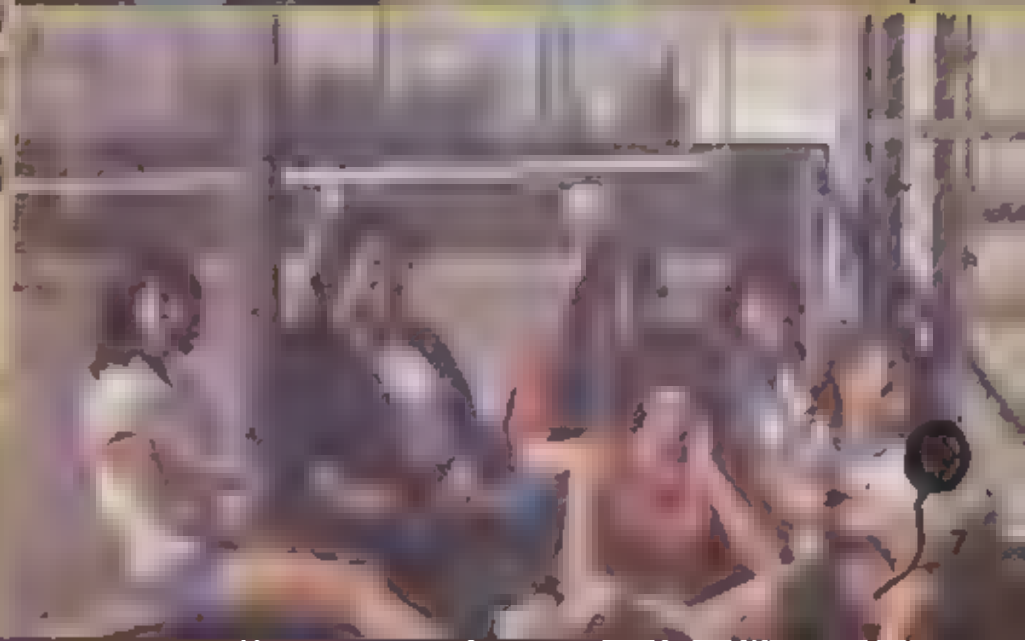

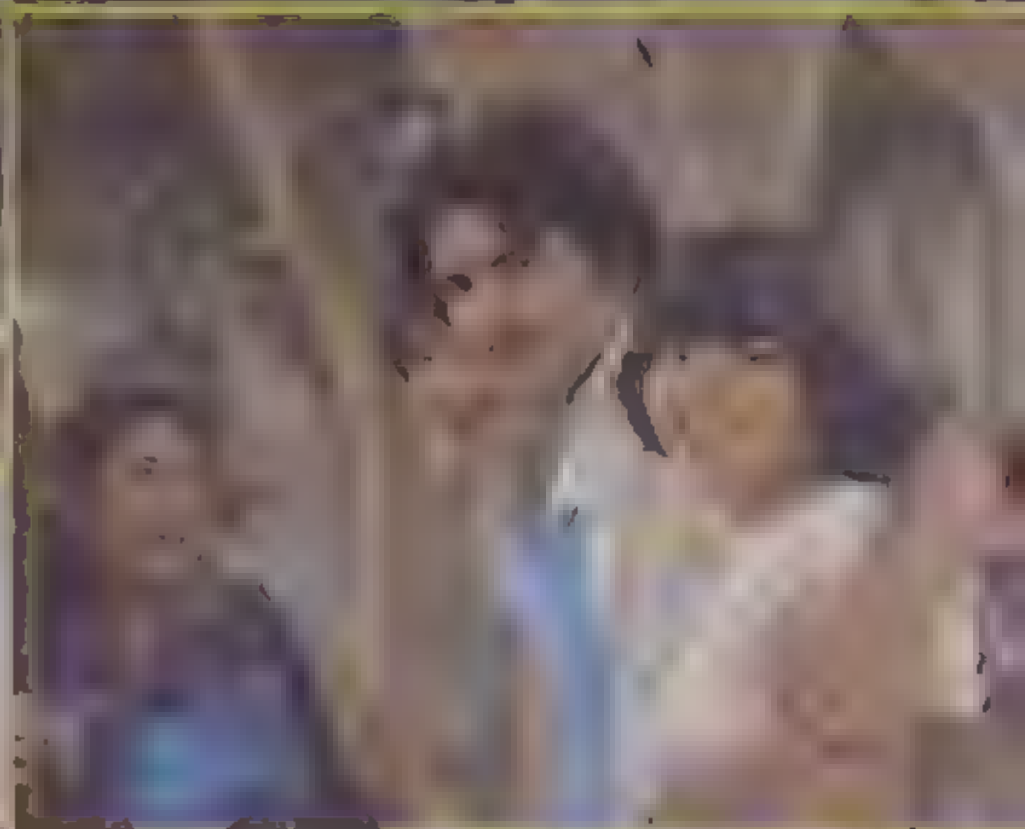

The best way to see all of our differences in action was to stick around during lunch. Even when nothing seemed to be happening, something was. A typical day would find people running from their fourth period to the lunch lines, their cars, or Stockton Court where an activity might be taking place. There were some people who were less enthusiastic and they just slowly headed for their usual hangout. Once everyone got situated where they wanted to be, it was time to observe.

People who stood in those long horrendous lunch lines had different ways of expressing their frustration. Some would start gnawing at their nails considering cannibalism, screaming at the people in front of them, while others were more subtle and would just kick back and wait. Those lucky enough to have cars would sneak by Mr. Roberts and go out to Taco Bell, Harts, or McDonalds for no lines, no fuss, no hassles and a REAL LUNCH.

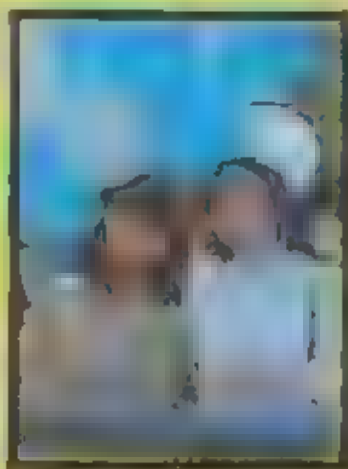

Reaching Eye on HP

Stockton Court was a festival all year round. Whether it rained or shined, something was happening. Activities played the biggest part of lunch time. They brought out craziness and power from the students. The craziness in trying to organize an activity on time, or getting every piece of equipment to Stockton Court. The power generated from the students who were the backbone of the activities.

Stockton Court's Christmas Lane Parade was a stand-out. This had to be the most creative parade of all. Not only with it's floats, but with the Senior Reps and their advisor Ms. Dutra appearing as Rudolph and Santa's Reindeer. Halloween brought new and artistic faces to HP. Lots of students and faculty members dressed in colorful and creative costumes. Another activity which took place during the summer track was the watermelon eating contest. What a perfect event for hot weather!

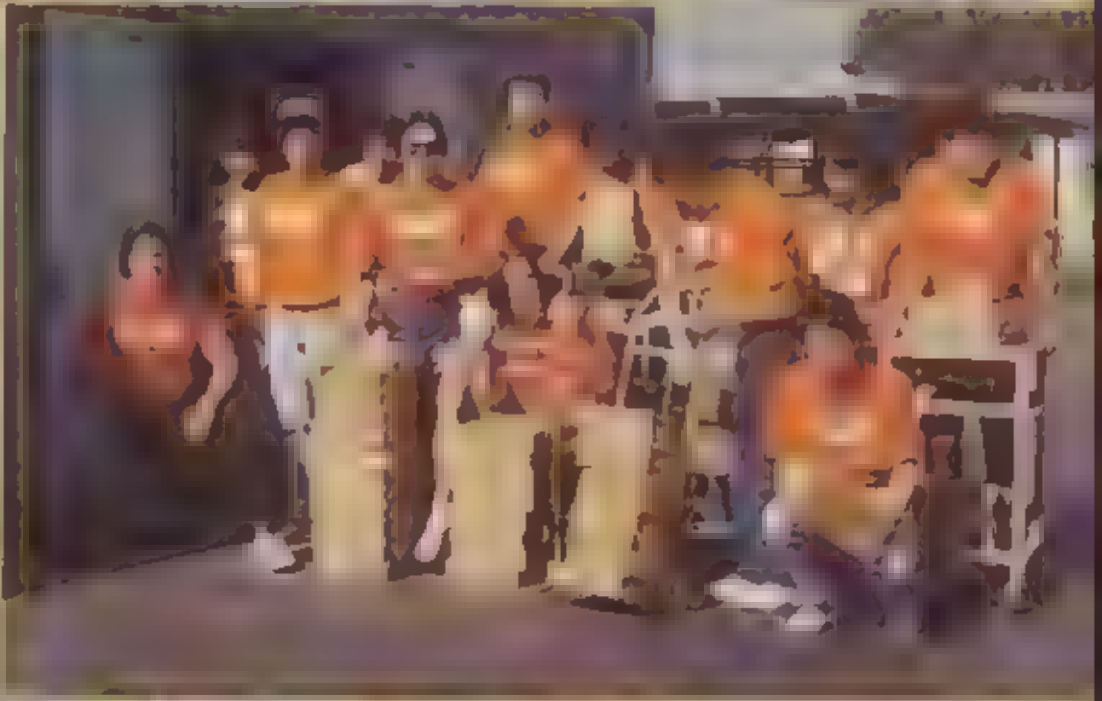

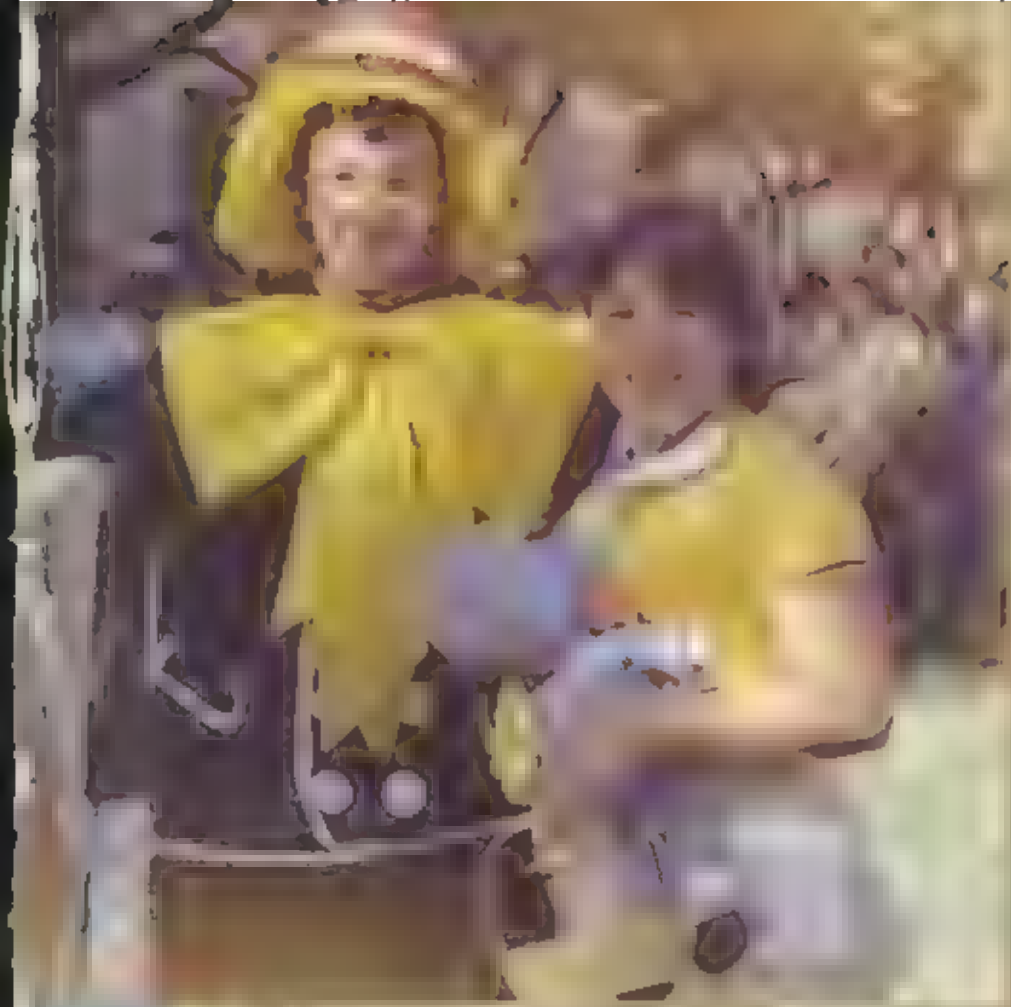

Watermelon pits were splattered all over, but the participants weren't bothered by the mess as long as they made it to the finish line.

Stockton Court also had it's share of pep rallies, band playing, and cheerleaders roaring at the crowd. Every Friday during football season, students gathered at Stockton Court to get fired up for the game that night.

Whether it was the football field or Stockton Court, we reached out to have a good time.

Homecoming 1981

Balloons, balloons, balloons, they were flying around all over the place. Although the Homecoming game didn't start until 12:30 p.m., decorating started four hours beforehand. Students from the House of Representatives, Leadership class, Yearbook staff, Marching Band, class representatives, and many other student organizations on campus volunteered their services to make the 1981 Homecoming the most colorful ever. As senior Brenda Colon, Student Body President put it, "I can't believe it. Everybody is really working together to make this great." Not only were students working on the football field, but also inside the Boy's Gym decorating for the Homecoming formal dance, sponsored by the Junior Class, which was scheduled for later that evening.

Each of the four grade levels constructed a float and paraded around the track during halftime. The most recently established club on campus, Speech, also put a float together and made their own presentation.

The Huntington Park City Council and Mayor Herb Hennes were each taken around the track in Model "A" cars driven by the Diamond Trend Club of Downey. Also included in the parade were members of the School Administration, students from the Executive Board, and fire engine filled with yell leaders, cheerleaders, and school mascots from the 1981-82 school year. As well as those from the past years.

Following the parade came the crowning of the Queen. HP HS usually had a court of five princesses, but for reasons unexplained, four were chosen for 82 court — Audrey Ortiz, Rosemary Ponce, Alicia Maldonado, and Brenda Colon.

The cheerleaders, drill team, and flag girls lined the 50 yard line while their princesses were accompanied by escorts of their own choice for the walk across the field where, once there, they waited for the winner to be announced.

The crowd was hushed as the two student Homecoming coordinators — AnnaLee Siller and Olga Caceras announced Alicia Maldonado as queen. Irene Martinez, 1980 Homecoming Queen, returned, as all former queen had to crown the new one. Alicia and her escort, Tommy Diaz, were paraded around the track one more time in a convertible sports car.

As the ceremony came to an end, the varsity football team charged out of the lockerroom. Through the cheerleaders' booster poster, and back to the sideline benches.

It seemed as though the whole day went well, because after a perfect halftime, the Spartan football team won the game against Marshall with a 12-0 score.

This was one time when the reaching paid off. Students working together made the day long celebration worthwhile in every possible aspect. The team played hard and the crowd cheered them on even harder. It was an all win situation.

Worlds Finest Did Just That

Huntington Park High School is one of the oldest schools in Los Angeles City school system. Passing by will not tell you the design and building structure. However, along with aging she is overlaid by an caring students and teachers.

When something breaks down and can no longer be used it is out of the way patiently for the time for repair. It is what seems like a non-existent thing when our marquee deteriorated from age and vandalism, we didn't want to give up.

A candy drive seemed appropriate in hopes of raising money. It was organized and the students and faculty worked together to benefit their school. Hard work was lent by the students in the selling of the chocolate bars. They were paying for the pavement with their work and not at all to sell their candy.

Teachers also participated in the extravaganza. One of the hardest workers was Mr. Geislerfeldt who designed the new marquee to be placed in front of our school. Other super teachers isaper coaches, were Mr. Parkhill, Mr. Reinstein and Mr. Maskrath who performed in a special assembly to encourage the sales. They donned Hula Skirts and shimmered and shook to the tune of a free hula to Hawaii. It was the Grand Prize in the candy drive. Refer to page 43 for Pictures.

Although there was fun to be had by all who participated, it was sad to think that the money raised could have gone to a different cause. The need for the new sign was largely due to destructive students. The sign was in working order until it was tampered with, but it seems very fortunate school spirit.

In all, the sale was a huge success and many prizes were awarded to the top sellers. But the biggest prize went to every one of us. A brand new sign, a symbol of our Spartan spirit.

Christmas in Orangeland

The spirit of the Christmas Holiday is getting involved. Either through traditions, parties, or new ideas, the coming together of people to celebrate Christ's birth can hardly be compared to anything else known to us.

At HP, students and staff were an important part of the season of giving. There was always a good feeling in the air during the Holidays. Record room teachers and their students decorated their classrooms and participated in the Boys Forum RR Decoration Contest. For the first time ever, the Sophomore Class sponsored a parade through Stockton Court. All groups on campus were invited to participate. Floats were judged afterwards. The campus ESL Department made 1st place. As tradition had it, our school band and spirit groups marched in the Fabulous Huntington Park Christmas Lane Parade. It was televised on a local TV station.

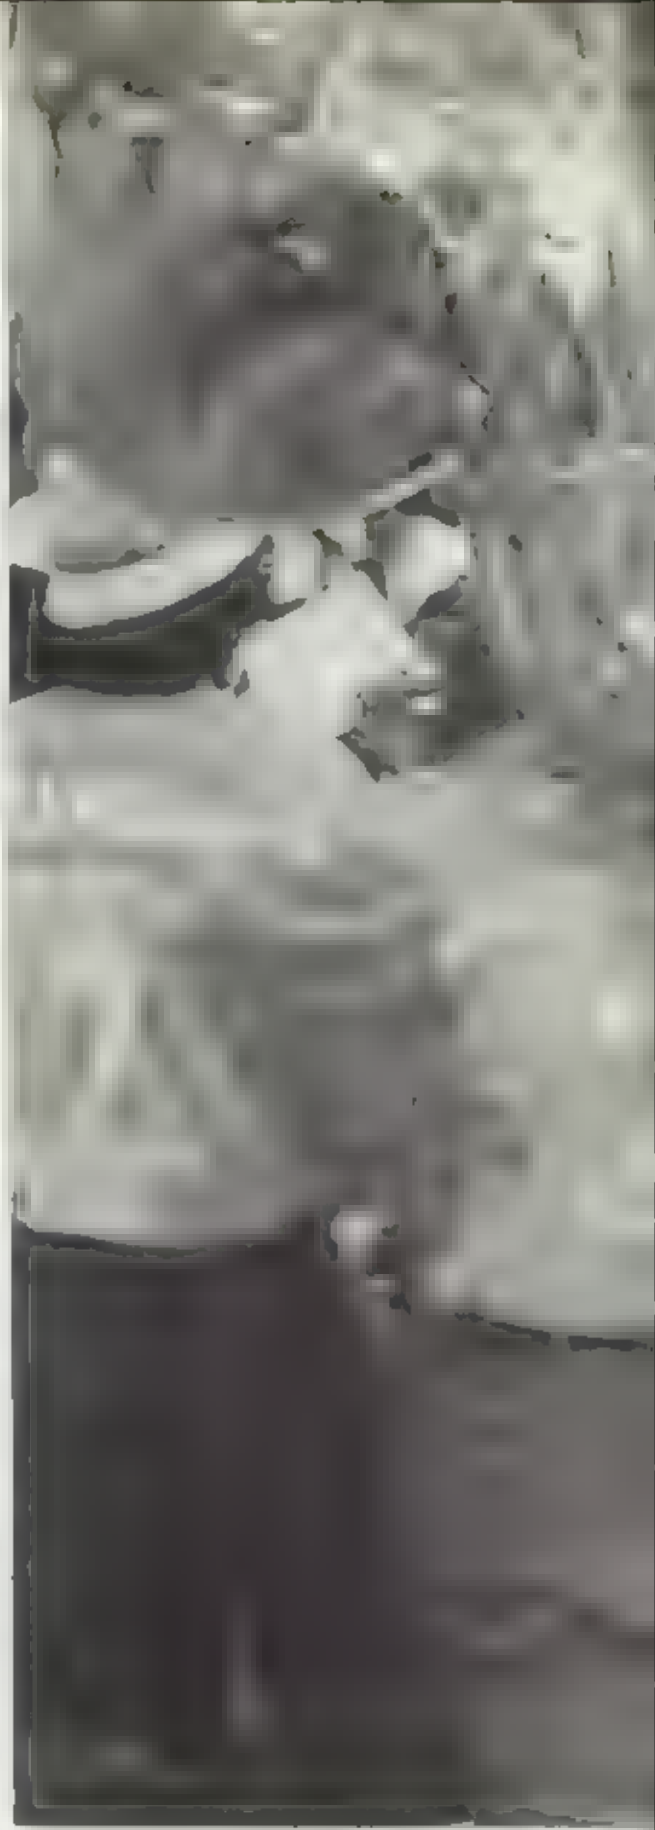

Perhaps over the years, the "true meaning of Christmas" took on a different look. Many people resented this, but most others seemed to enjoy it simply as it came. Of course, as soon as the New Year rolled along, people would drop their good sense of being and fall back into the reality of their monotonous characteristics — return to their redundant lifestyles. Somehow, though, each following December, the good in people would, once again come out. They would start back to their sharing, giving and even loving.

Life was definitely a wheel going round and round. Christmas played the part of a brake. It slowed us all down just long enough to enjoy each other.

We take it for granted. Little do we know that for some people America is a dream that never comes true. Yet for some it does, for in the back of their minds is the thought, "I must follow my dream for as I dream so shall it be!" What dream is it? It is the yearning to be free from communist pressures and demands.

Young men are the most likely to escape. Their whole childhood is based on this dream. Unfortunately, for many it does not come true. I personally know quite a few who have taken the risk and made it. Once in a blue moon a family might try escaping. My family is an example.

If the attempt fails, the consequences are harsh. The parents are thrown in jail and brutally beaten, while the children are taken to an orphanage. Knowing all this, my parents were still determined to flee from the country.

As through a thick fog, I can still remember that cold, gray winter morning on the 16th of January 1970, when my family set out for the train station. Our kids were unaware of our destination. My parents told us we were going to a different part of Romania to visit some relatives. (Little did we know that we weren't going to see those relatives till eleven years later.)

As we were nearing our stop my parents were getting very uptight. It was pouring rain something awful when we got off and our next step was to get through a stretch of land which was thickly lined with trees. We set off through the rain for we had no choice. Somehow we made it and I found myself in a bus racing at top speed along the country side. In a few minutes my parents' tension eased completely, we got off the bus and found ourselves in Austria. We had made it, free from the Communists forever. I remember this as through a thick fog, but my parents still recall the many complications which were involved.

After having to stay in Austria for 3 months, we moved in the United States. Many troubles and hardships awaited us. It wasn't easy finding yourself in a new country with 3 kids, 3 suitcases, and 3 dollars! The ghetto was the only place for us to live. We couldn't afford much.

As time progressed so did we. Foreigners are known to be hard workers and that's exactly what my parents were. From the ghetto on the South Side of Chicago we gradually advanced to the most beautiful area in Chicago, the Loop which is in Downtown.

But it was quite a struggle. I can still recall wearing the same clothes to school for weeks at a time! No it's not a mistake, weeks at a time! I can even remember not having shoes to wear, I had to wear my older brothers' gym shoes.

The kids at school all made fun of and laughed at me. I did not know what they were laughing at because I couldn't speak English. I just know that I'd put my head down on the desk and began to cry. I would run home and tell my ma, "I'm never going back to school again." But the next day there I was in the same clothes, with the same gym shoes. Even though that is all behind me now, I can't stop the tears from flooding my eyes when I think about it.

Through all the hardships my parents never gave up, cause they knew that "a quitter never wins and a winner never quits." They kept following their dream and they didn't let it die out, for "life without a dream is like a broken winged bird. It can not fly!" I have great respect for my parents because if it wasn't for them I'd be leading a miserable life in Romania right now.

Whenever I get discouraged and I feel like the world is crumbling in around me, I take time and look back on everything my parents went through. I build up courage and face the fact that "we can never direct the wind, but we can always adjust our sails."

ENERGY: Creativity vs. Rampage

Lined up down the center of Stockton Court are four American Jacarandas. Growing for over a half of a century, they shedded their leaves during autumn and grew them back, along with delicate showy blue flowers during spring.

At the north end of the court stood the largest tree of them all. Perhaps, bring on the end, it was exposed to more sunshine and rainfall.

The many lunch and nutritions that it shaded students will never be able to be totaled. As usual, though, most students never gave it much thought. It was a nice, big tree and more often than not, that was simply as far as appreciation for it went. It wasn't everyone that held pleasant regard for the tree, though.

On a Saturday night during December of 1981, a group of vandals came on to campus and took a powered chain saw to a number of trees. A few of them were completely chopped down. One, the Stockton Court Jacaranda, was also a victim of the senseless plundering. It was too wide at the base for a simple chainsaw to get through, but all the same, it took a pretty bad cut up. The chain of the saw cut deep into the center of the trunk. It didn't look like it was going to make it.

Some Spartan students hated to see such a remarkable relic of nature be written off as "ruined." They requested that a tree doctor came on campus to make an examination. The administration agreed. Hopeful thoughts were soon let down. The doctor explained what had been expected — the tree would have to come down sooner or later. Luckily, it was plastered up at the wound and left for the following spring. As it had always provided, it sprouted and sprinkled its showy blue flowers throughout Stockton Court. But, for the following Spring — only three Jacarandas would sprinkle

A BETTER WAY TO BE

The road he walked on ran for miles in both directions without a curve or hill. The countryside was flat, without a tree in sight. He was absolutely alone.

Ron Karibe was a drifter. After the death of his parents when he was fifteen, he'd left his hometown of Crystal Spring, a little town in Michigan. For seven years he'd wandered, never getting close to anyone. The dawn of the day before his twenty-second birthday found him on a road somewhere in Montana.

The sound of a car's engine behind him made him turn. It was a small sportscar, driven by a girl of about 16 or 17. She pulled up alongside and asked if he wanted a ride. "Thanks", he said and got in without another word. "What's your name?", she asked, "where are you headed?"

Ron, he answered, "and I'm headed anywhere my feet take me."

She considered that for a while and then said, "I'm Margot. How'd you get out here anyway? It's a good thirty-five miles back to Mortonsville. Did you hitch a ride?"

He stared at her for a moment and then said, "No. I walked."

"Walked?" She exclaimed, "from Mortonsville?"

"You must've walked all night."

"I like to walk at night," He said with a little smile.

"Each to his own," she said with a shrug.

They rode along in silence for a while after that. He studied the non-existent scenery. She concentrated on steering the car along the perfectly straight road.

After a couple hours they came to a little town where they stopped for lunch. While there he learned that she was returning home from Billings, where she'd arranged for her mother's burial. Her mother had been in a nursing home for over a year.

It was a lonely trip for her since her mother had been the last member of her family. And now she was returning home to an empty house.

He told her about growing up near Lake Michigan. When he was fifteen, his parents had been killed in a car accident, and he'd been pinned in a wreckage. They were on a seldom-traveled road and he'd been there for two days, before being discovered. After being treated for exposure and a wolf bite he'd received he left town, seven years of wandering finally brought him to Montana.

They started off again. Two lonely souls who'd found a friend in one another. By the time they reached her house it was getting dark. After a light meal of canned soup they went in to the living room, she started a fire and they sat together and stared at the flames. Suddenly he stood up and went to the window, he pulled up the shade and light from the full moon streamed in, she looked at him sleepily and then screamed, in his place stood a full-grown wolf.

The road he walked on ran for miles in each direction without a curve or hill. The countryside was flat, without a tree in sight. But this time, he wasn't alone.

Varsity Football 2nd in NE League

Powerful take off leads to a staggering finish

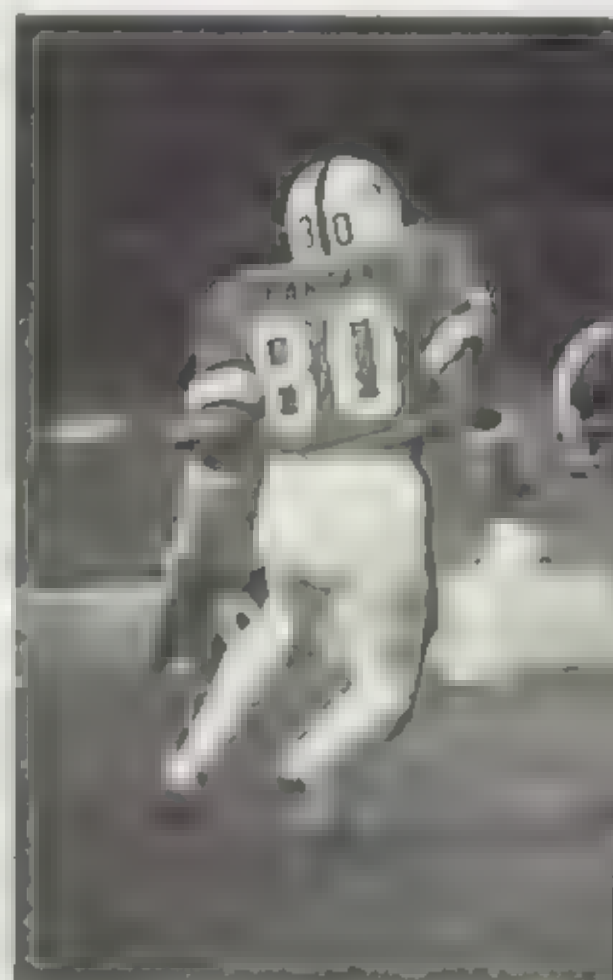

On Friday nights all through football season, Spartans came out to Reeder field to cheer, shout, yell, and support their team.

After a long summer training of weightlifting and exercises the Spartan football team was ready for their first practice game.

The season started badly for the Spartans. On their first game HP lost to rival, Bell, 24-6.

The Spartans knew that they couldn't lose their second game, making two touch downs in the first and racking up 19 additional points to defeat the Hollywood Sherks.

Although HP lost to South Gate and Bell in practice games, the best effort by far was against the South Gate Rams. After half time the Spartans came out of the locker room determined to prevent the Rams from scoring again. As Coach Muskrath yelled "That's my team in the second half."

After the first two league games with Lincoln and Marshall the Spartan team was determined to remain undefeated. Once the third game got under way it seemed as if all hope was gone. Leaving the field for half time #63, said "Come on let's go Baby Boys" and that is what they did. Leaving the locker room with a positive attitude the team kicked off the second half with a touch down followed by a recovered fumble from #52, Willie Perez. Keeping the momentum going #75, Ignacio Gutierrez intercepted a pass and with 1:29 to go in the third quarter HP scores another TD bringing the score to 13-12. Tasting a victory #82, George Meldrum caught a nearly impossible pass and scored for a 19-12 lead. Having no chance to win Garfield's defense pounced on #22, Heber Porras, trying unsuccessfully to block the field goal. (cont. pg. 70)

1 During the Marshall game, Coach Muskrath pulls #11, Vince Rodriguez, aside from his gatorade break to instruct him on the next few plays. 2 #66, Juan Barrios, #74, Damon Watson, #44 Andrew Lee and #77, Vernon Osborne, the defense known as 'the Big D,' apply the whack that jarred the ball from Marshall's fullback. Juan's swiftness in recovering the ball helped the Spartans win another victory. 3 Defensive ends #31 Bobby Martinez and #81 Guillermo Contreras end Marshall's QB run on Huntington Park's 5th yards line. 4 Making the kick that almost led the team to victory in the last game against Roosevelt is #22 Heber Porras. 5 #22 Louie Guerrero, lands a punch of power on Marshall's defender to acquire numerous yards. 6 Bustin through for 1982, #72 Eddie Zumbado, tears up the spirit poster at the beginning of HP's practice game against the Eagles.

HP Cages the 'Eagle'

Were the Spartans over confident when they met the Eagle Rock Eagles — a team that hadn't won, and HP a team that hadn't lost? It was halftime and neither team had scored. Till the third quarter when #77, Vernon Osborne recovered a fumble and #82, George Meldrum came to make the only TD of the game. Shutting out Eagle Rock. Coach Muskrath said "it wasn't the greatest game in the world but it's out of our system."

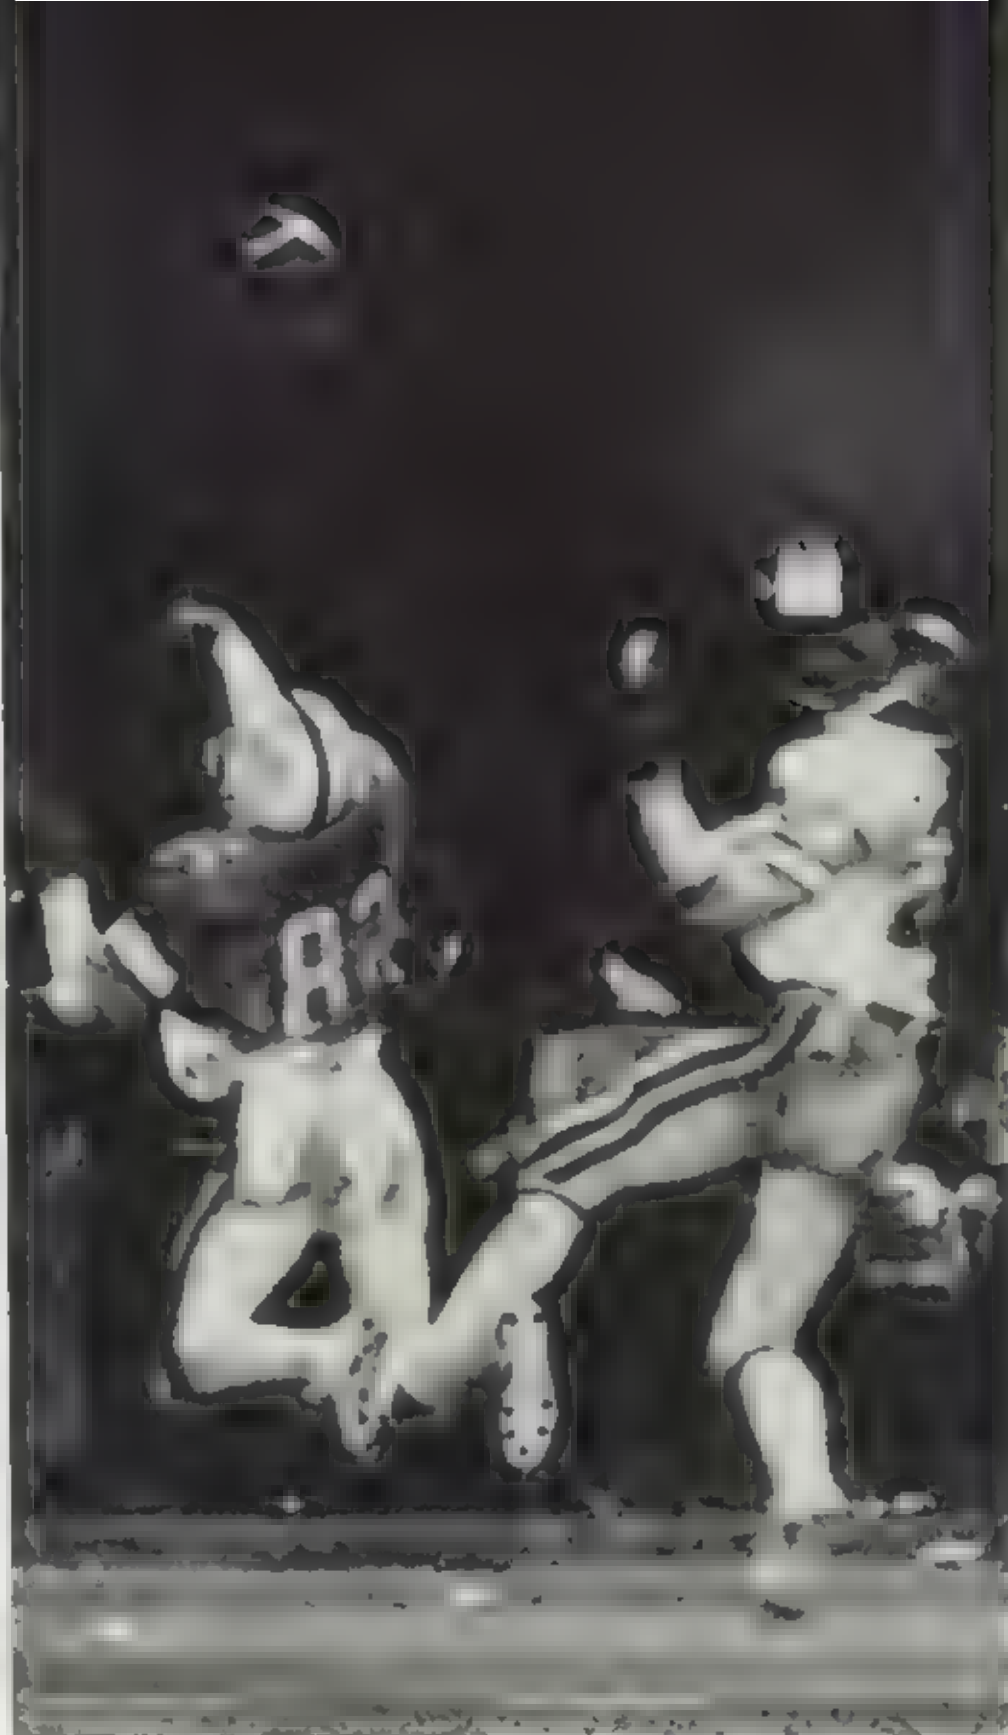

The Spartans had maintained a standard of excellence all season until the clincher came. It was November 13, 1981 in Reeder Field against the Jordan Bulldogs. Both schools were tied for first, who was going to come out alive we didn't know

It started out with the Bulldogs making a TD in the 1st quarter and the Spartans coming back in the 2nd quarter with #82, George Meldrum making a TD. It was half time and HP was leading 7-6. It looked good but then the Bulldogs came back to add on the board and 6 more in the fourth quarter handing the Orange Machine its first loss and a farewell to league championship

1 Preventing Roosevelt's wide receiver #20 by deflecting the Bomb is #82 George Meldrum HP's defensive back. 2 "What are you doing playing head up on the line Watson," exclaims Coach Parkhill to #74, Damon Watson, defensive end. 3. Lifting his arm in approval of the referees decision on a penalty against the Rough Riders is #50, Willie Perez. Beside him are #66, Juan Barrios and #53, Alex Kozasky both All League Players. 4. After a great catch #31 Bobby Martinez moves ahead to gain yardage. 5. On the run is #44 Andrew Lee to nab the ball from Marshall's QB. 6. While linemen hold off an incoming Marshall defense, #11, Vince Rodriguez scans the field for a receiver. 7. Leaving the line of Marshall defense is #33, Joe Guzman on a trap play. 8. One of the few times #82 George Meldrum was not in action. 9. All-League player #52 Willie Perez recovers the ball after Marshall's QB fumbles, with #44 Andrew Lee on his way.

We're Still the One

The only thing left was for the Spartans to take second, but to do so they had to beat Roosevelt. Garfield had played against Roosevelt and won, HP felt pretty sure they would win. That theory proved to be wrong. With 4:48 left in the 1st quarter #33, Joe Guzman delivered a TD to put HP in front.

In Play-offs the HP Spartans faced the Grant Lancers to get knocked out of City Play-offs. The game was tied until the 2nd quarter, when the Lancers scored 7 pts. The Spartans returned in the 3rd quarter to add 3 pts. and then the Lancers came back in the 4th quarter adding 7 more points getting rid of the Spartans 14-3.

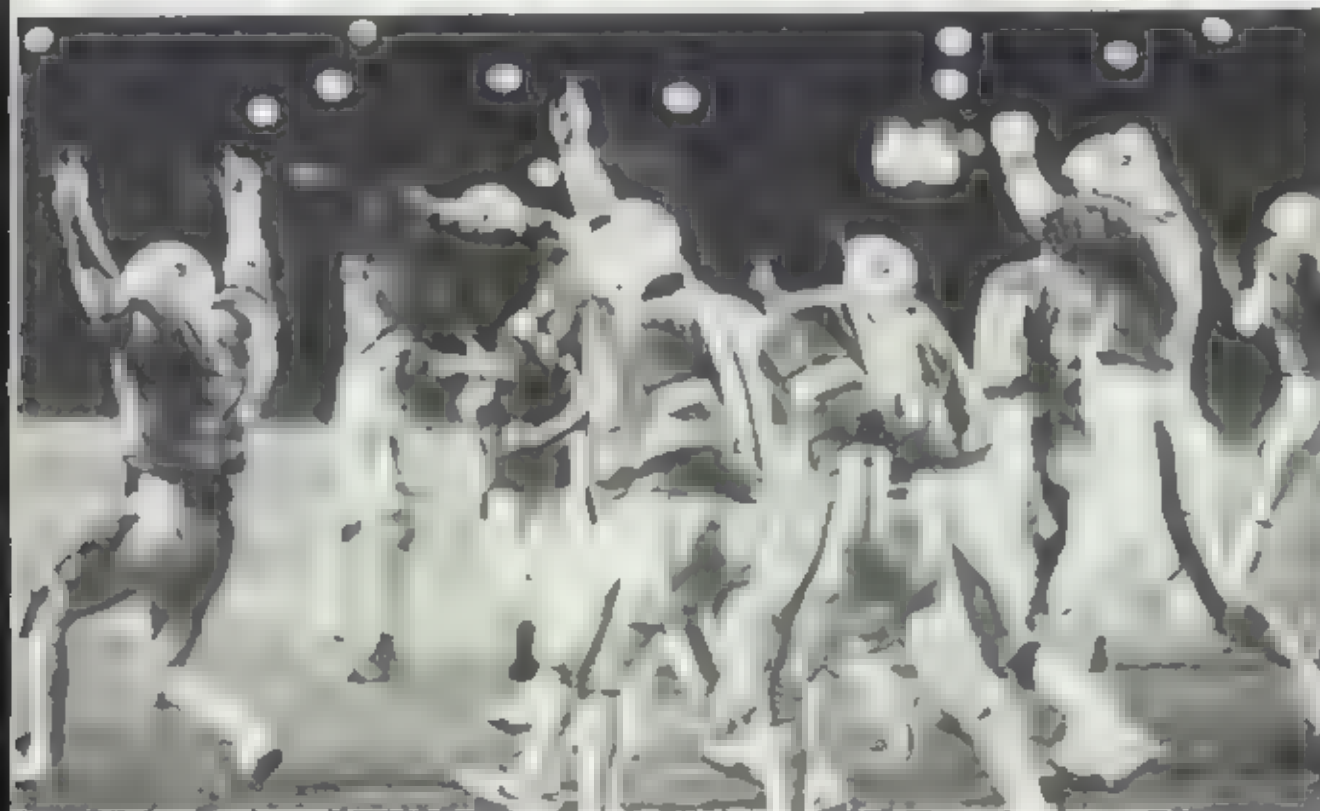

The hope ended here for a City Championship. The team had a season with few injuries but they still gave it their all for the entire season to prove that the Spartans are still #1.

4 During the second practice game of the season, #72, Eddie Zumbaro, expresses his excitement over the 5th TD lead. 5 Spartan team shouts over #22, Heber Porras' spectacular field goal with only a few seconds left in the game. 6 Most inspirational team member #66, Juan Barrios, is pleased by the team's effort.

Varsity Basketball

Tough Season

The team may have lacked skill and experience, but they made up for it with determination and persistence. After giving it their all the varsity team just couldn't seem to win. They were, however, able to defeat South Gate HS, not once but twice. After many losses the Spartan spirit may have weakened, but it never died. The girls worked their techniques, but luck just wasn't on their side, ending the season 2-8. The girls were winners in our book for trying so hard.

Strategy: The Name of the Game

"Should I put Martha Rodriguez in 4th singles or use her to strengthen 4th doubles?" says Coach Young

Decisions. Decisions. The girls Tennis team almost had 1st place, they needed to win or tie with Jordan for League Championship. Strategy worked once for the team in the 2nd round against Bell, when the 1st and 2nd singles were moved down to strengthen the doubles teams. This strategy pulled out a win for HP creating a 3-way tie with Bell and Jordan

The final challenge came against Jordan HS, who were in a comfortable 1st place. If HP was to take League Championship Jordan would have to be defeated. HP, however, was defeated by Jordan in the League and Bell HS, having fewer losses, placed 2nd with HP sitting in 3rd place

Cross Country

Varsity Finishes a Challenging Season

This year HP had a strong varsity group. The cross country varsity team finished their 1981 season with a 5-1 record which placed them 2nd in league standings. Under the coaching of Mr. Springer and Ms. Atkinson there were several outstanding athletes who gave it their all and showed why the Spartans have so much pride.

Huntington Park kept the winning momentum going by defeating Bell HS, one of the toughest teams on the league. A first for the 82 team was their fifth place runner who came in under 15:58 for a 3 mile course. Mr. Springer's cross country team did great.

By the time the season ended, they were already looking forward to an even better season for the following year.

1 Coach Springer gives the girls a last minute look at their positions. 2 Giving the camera a finishing smile is Sergio Navarrete as he heads toward the finish line. 3 Leading the Spartans to the victory is Jose Vasquez. 4. Manuel Gayton keeping a good pace, leads his opponent to the finish line. 5. Johnny Rivera models for the camera after a tiring run. 6. Francisco Calvo coming to the finish line with an exhausting look on his face. 7. Leaving his opponent far behind. Pedro Leos gives it his all.

JV Cross Country

On the Run For the Upcoming Season

The JV 1982 season was an exciting one. Even though it was a small group the real challenge and excitement for them was placing 2nd in league meets and 6th in city championships. Coached by Mr. Springer and Ms. Atkinson. Miguel Munoz, Alfredo Gonzales, Fernando Hernandez, Gabino Herrera, and Eloy Luna improved their time through daily work outs, and by the end of the season a championship was in sight. Coaches and team alike are anticipating a super season next year

Girls' Cross Country

New Team Gets a Slow Start

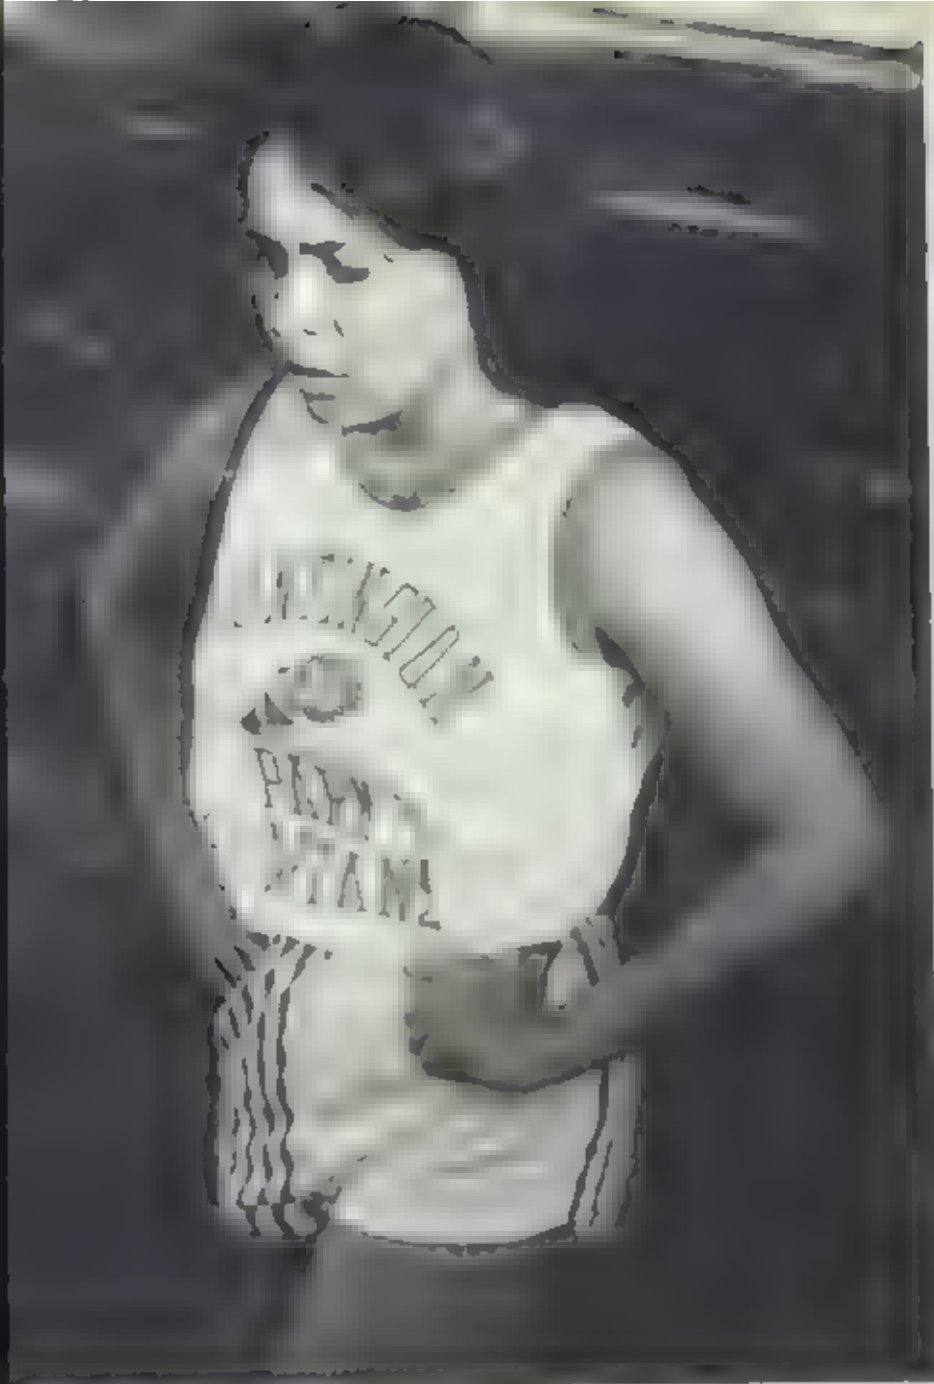

Our girls cross country team scored two victories and were defeated four times. The team consisted mainly of beginners, but all were willing to put in their best effort. They finished 4th in league standings. (For this team there was good news and bad news) Although the season began with losses to Marshall, S Gate and Roosevelt, it was clearly obvious that performances from all members held the team together. MVP Irma Gomez was an outstanding runner. She ran the two mile course in a time of 13:25 one of HP's highest records. It was an unremarkable season with truly remarkable runners.

Varsity Volleyball

Playoffs Again

The Varsity team had a near perfect season last year. After winning the league title and going into playoffs last year. The team was all fired up waiting for the season to begin. Having the chance to go into finals, the team had some minor problems that contributed to their taking third place in league and losing the first game in finals. The All City South League players from HP were, Martha Martinez and Judy Munoz for first team, second team was not very happy about not placing in finals because they as well as Coach Halowell knew they could have done better. Most of the girls will be returning again so we expect it to be a very good season. Hoping everyone goes out and support the team

J V Volleyball: 3rd In City Play-offs

Among 49 high schools our JV Volleyball team had the singularity of placing third in the city

Hard practices with coach Halowell and coming in off track is what did it. An all team effort was the key to success. These Spartans had a lot of hidden talent, among them were two girls that had so much to do with the victory that they were both recognized as most valuable players. they were senior Anna Ibarra and junior Martha Cortez. The most improved player Susie Hernandez was an excellent example of new blood on the team.

Recognition is due to the girls on the team for their outstanding performance. As their mentor and friend, Ms. Halowell said, "I'm very proud of my team."

Soccer

Eastern League Champs

After an impressive (9-2) season and achieving third place last year the soccer team was ready to prove to themselves and to the fans that they were one of the best in the Eastern League. Under the leadership of Coach Hoyos, the 1981-82 season brought the team their longest winning streak. The HP soccer team had no loses, 3 wins, and one tie. During league games they won 3, tied two, and had no losses. Unfortunately confidence was not enough to take playoffs this year. The HP team lost to Jefferson High (City Playoffs) 3-2. HP is very proud of their soccer team, because of their determination and hard work in achieving the Eastern League championship for 1982. Special appreciation goes to Coach Hoyos who lead his team with enthusiasm and discipline.

Soccer Makes the Goal

Once again the unsupported soccer team has taken the Eastern League title. It was a hard thing to accomplish without the moral support of most of the school, but with their dedication and that of their coach the team pulled through to win.

When they made a goal or played defensively the team put forth a great deal of determination into winning the game. Though they were not content with a few of their games, they wanted last year's season (1981) to happen again. As with all sports they wanted to win; only for them it was going to be for the second time they won the league title and went on to quarter finals. They didn't win the title of City Champs, but they were content to be in the quarter finals for the title. We wish all the players the same good luck next year. Hopefully they will have a larger crowd of Spartans to give them the support they need.

1 Francisco Hernandez hits the ball with his head passing it to his teammate before the South Gate Rams get a hold of it. 2 Knowing how to manage the ball up and down, Ricardo Sosa gives the Spartans an entertaining show. 3 Three year veteran Heber Porras makes a charging run to catch up with the ball. 4 Dedicated soccer coach Sam Hoyos, looking onward as he watches with amazement at his players enthusiasm. 5 Fearless player Alfonso Ramirez makes a sky jump to rush the ball before his South Gate opponent intercepts the ball.

1 More to Make It

After last years losing strike, the Spartans were up and about practicing, getting ready for the season

The team had two goals, the first was to gain a victory over Bell and the second was to make the playoffs. The first of these goals came true when the Spartans beat the Eagle's after many years of being defeated by them. The Spartans second goal almost came true, they needed just one more game to make it into the playoffs. It was a sad moment for the Spartans when they failed

With this near victory they have resolved to reach their goals next year

1 James Gonzales back hands the ball into the basket to give the Spartans the lead during the fourth quarter 2 Roberto Martinez jumps up for the rebound while everyone else watches with amazement 3 Passing the ball to his opponent, Vince Rodriguez, who later makes up for it when he scores the winning point for the Spartan victory, after going in to double quarters. 4. J V Basketball: Hopeful Beginning

This years JV Team had a lot to look forward to after last years winning streak when the Spartans tied the Jordan Bulldogs for first place.

A lot of getting acquainted was necessary because there was a new coach Coach Nitahara and the team were learning as much as they could about themselves and the game. It looked like history was about to repeat itself, as the Spartans started the Bell game the most important game of all to them. When the day came for this exciting game the Spartans came out winning by one point.

They ended their season winning half of their league games. Next year the Spartans have a good chance of taking league. We wish them the best of Luck.

Rebound Just Out of Reach

The season started off as any season does. Every member of the team being at practice at 6:45 was one of the many things they had to put up with, another new thing with was their new coach. Last years JV coach Lee Rolston was now the coach of the Bees. He had a lot of new plays for them to learn. Though the Bees didn't earn a league win, that didn't mean they didn't deserve one. The Bees did won one of their practice games against a team in a higher division. There were three main people that held the team together. Senior Zachery Cue, Jose Saldana, and junior Carvel Avery. One thing that held the Bees down was the need for more members. They played the second half of the season with only five players. Next year they can only hope there will be more people on the team and in the stands to support them.

1. Point guard Carvel Avery does some flying against the Eagles to put one in the hoop for the Spartans. 2. Senior James Robinson uses his arms on defense to keep the ball away from a Jordan opponent. 3. Center Mando Villa stomps an Eagle to the ground to get the ball and score two through the hoop. 4. Jose Saldana keeps his opponent from passing the ball while teammate James Robinson watches and decides what to do next. 5. The teams leader, Zachery Cue, goes up for a lay up to score a sure two against Jordan. Carvel Avery, and Mando Villa watch in anticipation.

Cee Basketball

New Coach Has Old Problem

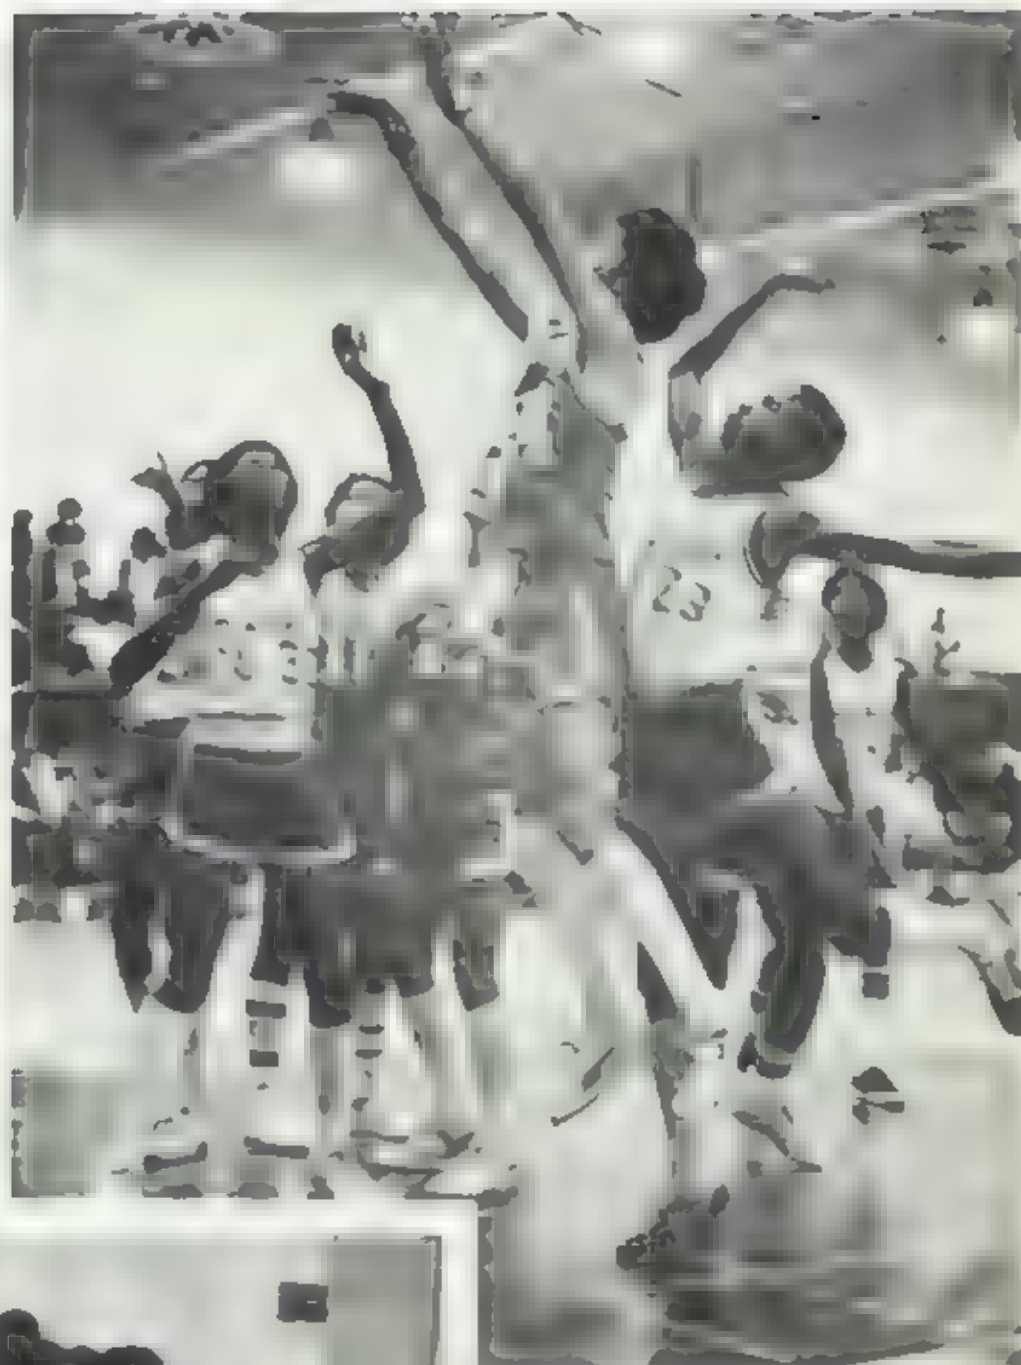

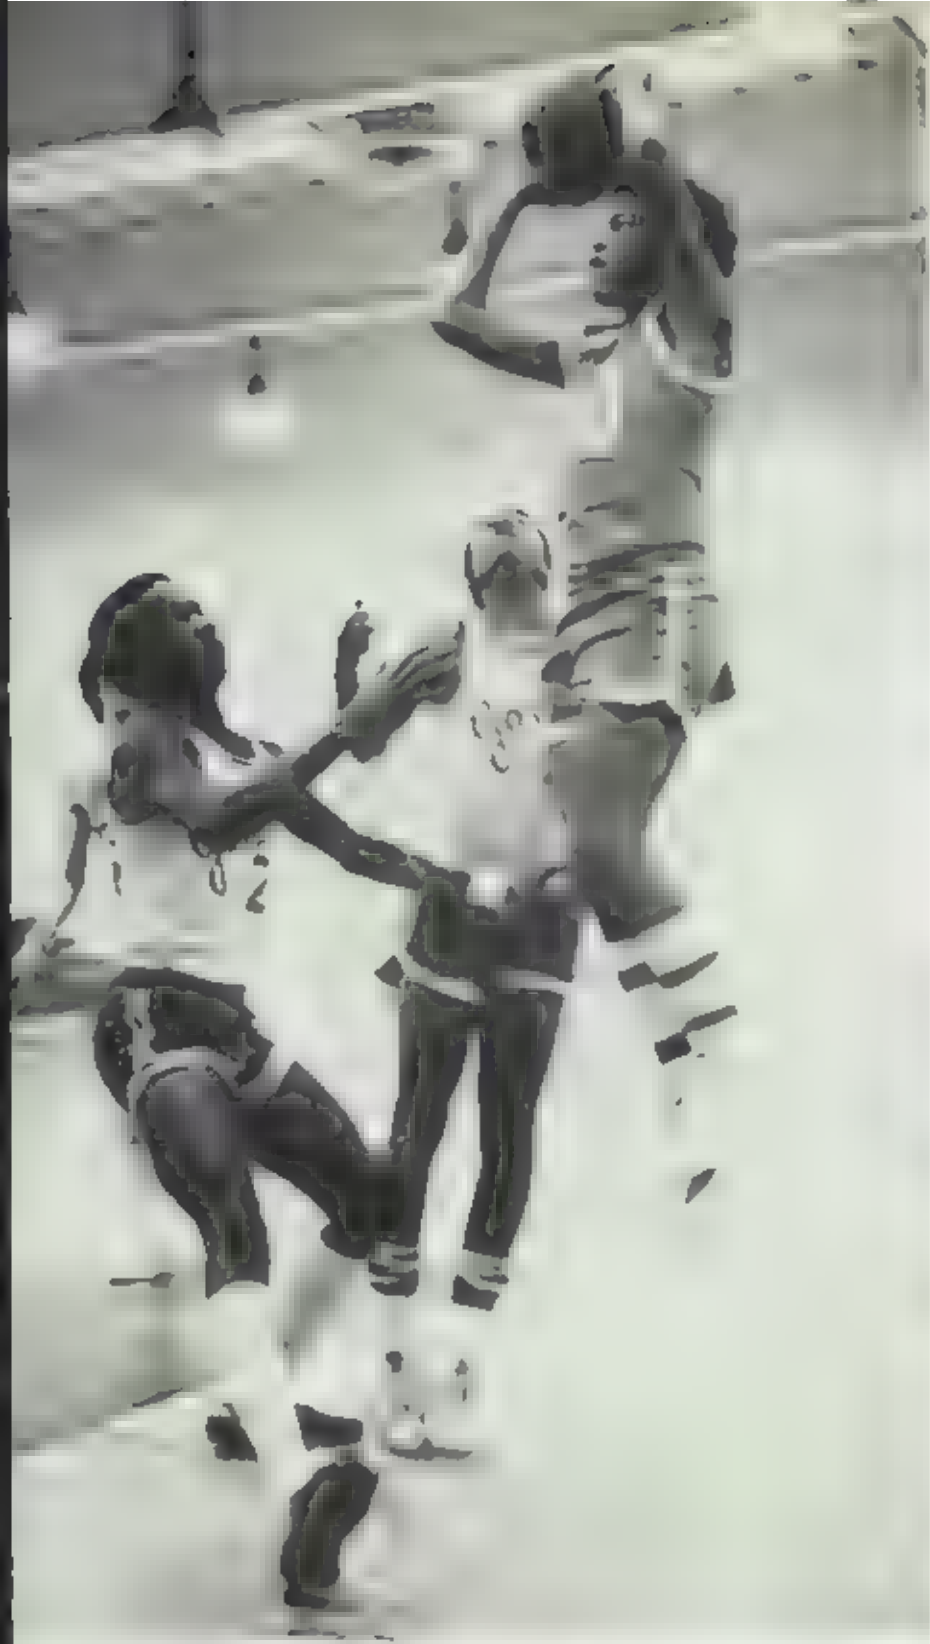

The Cees ended their season with a 6-4 record in their league standings. With a new coach, Jerry Woodard, the Cees had a new way of playing basketball. Their coach was always heard during the games. He even got a few warnings from the referees to calm down during a few of the Cee's games. The team is made up of 9th, 10th, and 11th graders. Most of them will be returning, or moving up to higher teams next year. This year's season had many different kinds of highlights. One highlight included Eddie Valenzuela scoring 22 points in one game. The team never had a set line-up. Almost all the players would play in most of the games. The Cees had two noticeable leaders, freshmen Darryl Penn and sophomore Rene Garcia. With one season under new coach Woodard's belt, next year's season promises to be even better than ever for Cee basketball.

1. Carlos Crisnino uses some ballet moves to reach a little higher to get a rebound against Bell, while teammate Pablo Garcia watches. 2. Forward Patrick Johnson squeezes through two tough opponents to drive towards the basket. 3. Guard Darrell Penn gets his feet off the ground to make a basket against the Jordan Bulldogs. 4. Coach Woodard gives the Cee team incentive by telling them if they win the game he'll treat them all to Pepsi's after it's over. 5. Sal Gonzales shoots the ball in, even with an opponent trying to push him away. While his fellow teammates Darrell Penn and forward Pablo Garcia watch and wait for the rebound if it doesn't go in.

Eastern League Champs

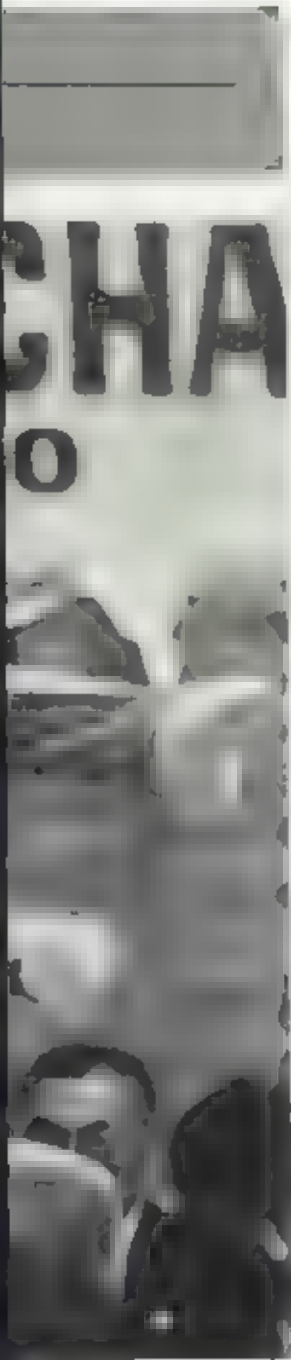

Break a leg was the most appropriate cliché in expressing our gymnastics team for R2. Many team members suffered injuries prior to meets such as Kenny Pena. He sprained his ankle just before city semifinals but still went ahead to compete. He ate it on his dismounts, stated Teddy Guzman. Yet Kenny's performances were superb, according to the points he collected as usual. Injuries were a big factor in losing city finals for first place. As Keith Smith explained, They should take 1st next year if nobody gets hurt.

Ferrando vaulted a new Val break on the bars during the semifinals. He did a backflip on the bars. The Guzman demonstrated a backflip on the parallel bars. David Moore doing a handstand with a backflip. The team finished with a total of 147.02 points. In the finals, the team finished with a total of 162.91 points. The team won the Eastern League Finals.

Season of Struggles

Girls' Gymnastics is a demanding sport requiring a tremendous amount of skill and training. Most girls on the team were inexperienced and needed time to develop their skills.

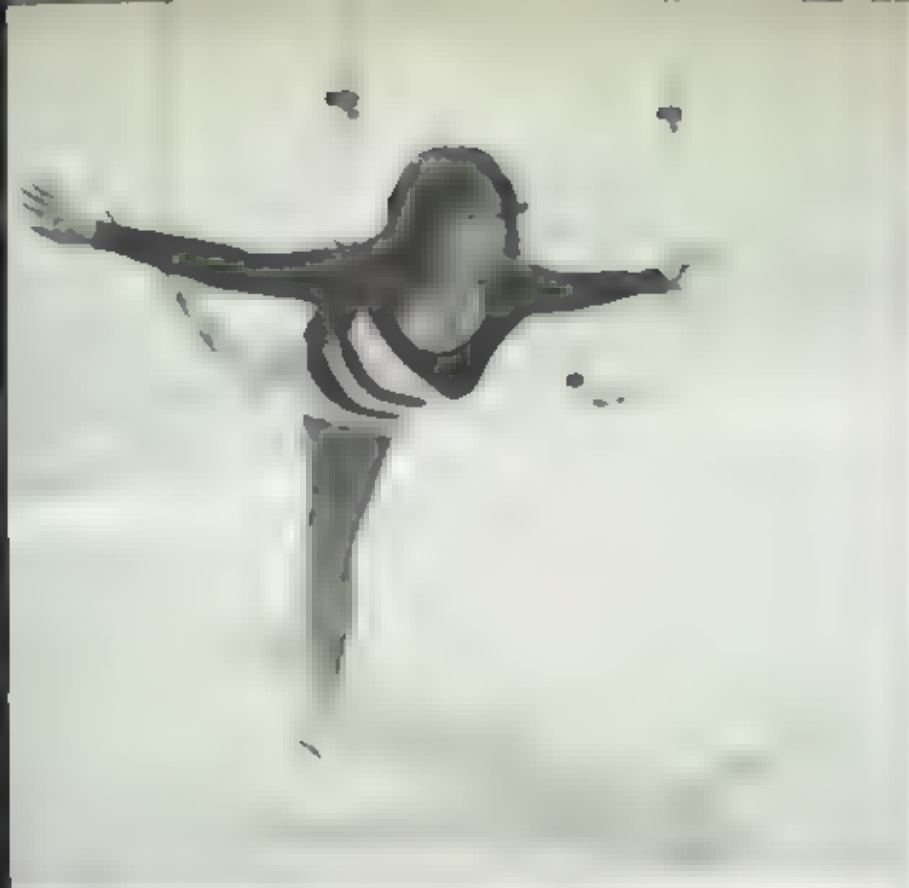

Discipline and practice were the watchwords as the season seesawed between wins and losses, ending with a 2 wins 2 loss season. Coach Einberg expects to improve the team standing next year since most of the team members will be returning.

Young and Strong

Consisting of mainly Sophomores and Freshmen, the Junior Varsity Tennis Team pulled themselves through a long, but successful season that, consequently, rewarded the W/A League Championship. There was a spirit of determination between the team members. They played each of their sets as though they would all come together to form one accumulative score, which was precisely what happened. Their unmatched strength held them together. From the beginning of the season, their youthful talents had already begun showing. It was their talent for accuracy that carried them through.

As young players, they have a couple more years to look forward to. They have done well in their first season and success is ahead for them.

Season of Almost...

The Varsity Baseball team had many high hopes this year after making it to playoffs two years in a row

The team was on the ball during their first practice game but their high spirits didn't last long after entering league losing the last three practice games and now losing their first four games in round one

Though they were ranked at a low position, they were a good team. Their failure was attributed to errors. They lost seven out of eleven games by one or two runs

... but Not Quite

It was hard getting into the game knowing about how close they were to an Eastern League Championship title but the Spartans managed to get through their season with a decent record. We hope next year's team makes it all the way to finals and not encounter the close wins.

Varsity Softball

The season started and so did the Spartans winning streak, they won the first three games of the season. It seemed like this year they would make it to playoffs. They had a very good team that had the effort and willpower to make it. When the errors and the downfalls came it was hard on the team as well as coach Halowell because they knew they could have made it to finals especially having three top seniors on the team. Brenda Colon with the best batting average of the team, once batting three home runs out of four times at bat, Gracie Guzman, center field — her home away from home, she was always there when the ball came flying by, she was voted Most Inspirational by her teammates. Lastly, Martha Martinez, one of the best pitchers, made more strikeouts against the undefeated Bulldogs than any pitcher in the league. The Spartans were the only team to beat the Bulldogs in the league.

The season ended and the team wishes they could have turned back the clock because it would have given them a second chance at the title. Fortunately they still have next year with their returning players. It may be a victory yet for the Spartans.

The JV Softball team had a good season, even though they didn't finish their season as well as they would have wanted. They tied and forfeited a couple of games and won only one against the Rams.

This team consisted of mostly freshmen and sophomores. The team had a very slow start but they enjoyed every moment of being on the team, they were a very cheerful team with good attitudes.

Five of these girls went on to place in all-league: Angie Contreras, Angie Quijada, Virginia Olivo, Laura Amaya and Martha Barra.

It was a short season but it was a fun season for the girls as well as for Coach Sato. The girls made her seem right at home as it was her first year at HP.

Senior Year of 1982

Who Said It Was All Fun?

'Decisions, Decisions, Decisions — I'm only 18 years old I can't decide which college to go to. Besides, that kind of stuff isn't on my mind right now. I have a final next period, Government, I hope I pass it. I couldn't study last night because of work. I've already taken too many days off from my job so I could go out on weekends, besides the Prom bids, are coming up and I have to start saving. Oh no, I have to start shopping for clothes! What am I gonna wear? I thought the Senior year was supposed to be a load of fun.

What a stock of balogna that comment was piled up to be.

There was no doubt the senior year was a busy one. Whenever there was fun to be had . . . It was had, but when it came to the less fun stuff like studying and college exploring most of that was left until the last possible moment.

Sometimes the mixed emotions of anxiety and apprehension were just too much to handle. You would start looking forward to the Prom and Grad Night, and then realize how close they were to Graduation the last day of high school. All of your thoughts would just freeze. Most of the time these confusing feelings all balance out and it didn't seem so bad.

The year was like a game. The kind that only allowed you to move ahead. The rules were very clear and everybody had to follow them. The most favorable moves were forward. Any step back would put you way behind. The winners were the workers. They were the people that made it big in high school and everything else, they involved themselves in. They never let any worthwhile opportunities fly by without taking advantage of them. By the end of the year, it was obvious who the people were that were going to make it, the ones that were going to give up, and the others that would continue reaching.

ASB President — Brenda Colon

YB: Ok, you have been elected. There was a benefit to you as well as I want the student body.

Brenda: Well I really enjoyed it. I wish I had more time to get all the things done that I wanted to do.

YB: Was it easy for you to work with your friends?

Brenda: Nothing was ever easy. Some things came easier than others, but everything required work. Hard work had to be careful of what I said to the leadership.

I also needed some other things that I ask them for. I put myself in the right way. I was hard to remember that all of us were on the same level and holding a position of authority.

Any person or facts he were had to be sure to be set aside in order to get things done. For the most part, I was just doing and it made it a work trip.

YB: During your term, you had to deal with the school situation. Did it still work the way any particular person or group enjoyed working with?

Brenda: One of my best friends had to speak and make decisions that related to the school and the staff stood behind me. Mr. Harker, our principal, made that possible.

YB: He helped you in a way. I am sure he had interest and support in your leadership.

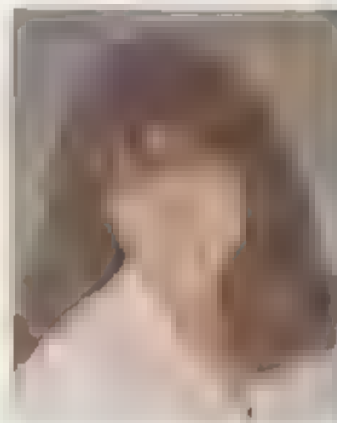

YB: Mr. Harker and Mr. Harker took a great interest in my work. They helped me when needed and gave me a lot of support.

YB: As a result, they stand behind my decisions. I found it especially enjoyed working with the leadership. I was proud of the work of the ASB. I was proud of the work of the ASB.

YB: You handled your job very well. It is very clear that your term served you and the student body in handling responsibilities. As we are dealing with problems, it is important to have positions and age. I hope to see you in your future. For best of luck in your future.

The day I found out I was elected Senior Class President I realized one of my most important goals in high school was finally fulfilled. I love my senior class, and I really wanted to be part of their leadership. I remember when we came in first for bringing in the most clothes, and when we clobbered the other classes in the cake eating contest. If it wasn't for senior participation and spirit, these activities wouldn't have been so successful. Although we came in first place many times we also had our defeats. I thought I was going to die of embarrassment when the Juniors whipped us 40 in the tug of war challenge. It took days until the Juniors stopped reminding us about it. The day the world stood still was when we lost in Powderpuff. We might have experienced many bad moments, but like Juan Barrios said when we gathered in the huddle after the Powderpuff game.

We're not letting this ruin our senior year, because the way I see it we're still #1.

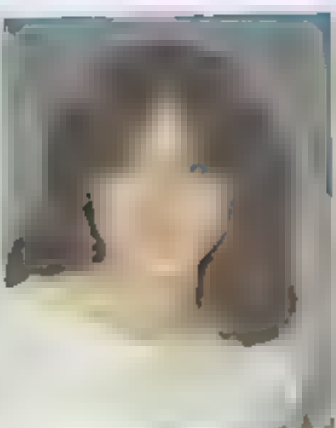

There is one person that I don't think the senior class could have gotten anywhere without and that was Mrs. Dutra. I had never met a sponsor who was as beautiful and caring as she was. As for year round, I don't think it separates us it brought us much closer to each other. I couldn't have asked any more from the fantastic spirited class of 82 that you have been.

Seniors Swarm to Room 1

What to do after high school? will always be a question in the minds of seniors. Many roads lay ahead for the class of 82 but each individual student could choose only one. A good place to visit if their interests were in higher learning was the College and Financial Aide Office. It served senior students in helping them to select a good college that was right for them. It also helped them through the hardships of getting accepted. However, most seniors often waited for the last minute to visit the office. On Feb. 10, the last day to file for financial aid, the seniors once again ignored the impending deadline and swarmed to the College Advisor's Office at the last minute in the belief that they would get special treatment. The result was waiting in long lines competing with the scholarship deadline. The Advisor's Office is there for one and only one reason, to help the student. But the Advisor's Office can't be much help if the student isn't willing to help themselves.

New Track System Opens School Year

By the time we were seniors, we all had grown accustomed to the changes that we had been through: three different school schedules: a regular, a double session, and a year round school. All by the time we were seniors. As sophomores the school only had three grade levels and started at 8 AM and ended at 2:45 PM. This was a relatively relaxing pace and not much change from junior high school.

As juniors we experienced the not so great idea of having a 40 period day. This was the beginning of double session. School began at 7 AM and ended at 5 PM. By fourth period all 3800 students were on campus including the newly added ninth graders. Lunch was a zoo. Since the campus was so small, having one group eat while the other is in class, the problem was mostly noise. What we had was two schools, one for the ninth and tenth graders and one for eleventh and twelfth graders. The double session seemed to complicate everything from electives to sports, but we survived and returned for our senior year.

As seniors we were the first graduating class to actually live through the newest schedule: YEAR ROUND. This system had a whole new set of problems to cope with Sports seemed to present the biggest challenge. After all, why should we have to come back to school on our two month vacation you didn't UNLESS you wanted to be in a sport that was scheduled during your off track time. (All students went 4 months on and 2 months off). However, if you happened to fall a subject coming to school during your off track for make up was a god send for some seniors who had trouble pulling their act together by June 29.

Through it all we seemed to keep our hopes high and our spirits up. We took the good along with the bad and the happy along with the sad. As June approached and it all drew to an end, we all kept reaching for new challenges.

Down to the Wire

Seniors Wait Too Long

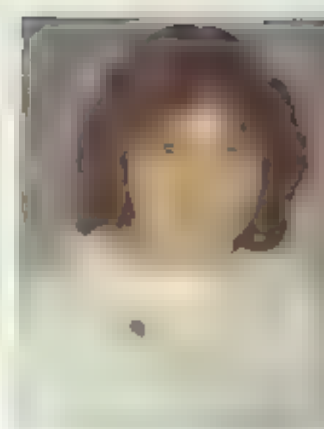

Walking through the halls, you would suddenly remember your freshman year. The Year would take a few more steps, look up, and see a poster saying "From Bids, One March 19-27, 1988". It was a reminder that seniors were saving their money simply to pay their bills, pay rent, and the senior prom, and to take you back to the old, old, old, old, old. As a senior, financial aspects, there were many in the studies and the homework to worry about. The average seniors, really, were not in these things until the last possible moment. Right before the test, they would come in, be very nervous, and say, "It was hard to keep going, but for their studies, when there were other things to do. Many seniors were preoccupied with their life, the senior trip, prom, and the old, old, old, old, old. A lot of seniors did not participate in class activities, because their grades were not up to par, while others were involved with their grades that they missed out on senior activities. Keeping above the wire was the whole trick to making everything work. If you could do that, you could make it through the Senior Year.

Brings That Spark to Huntington Park

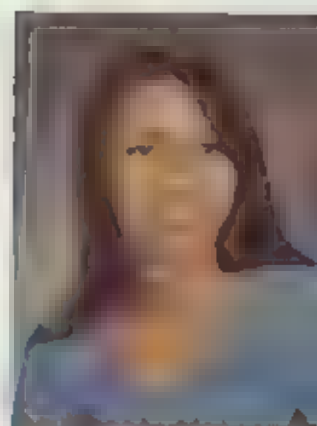

A new student is bringing a spark of excitement here at HP. When David Del Re enrolled as a senior in the fall, he drew the attention of many students and faculty. David stayed in Southern California and attended HP for the school year 8-9. David is from a town near Milan, Italy where he lives with his parents and two brothers. His first three months were spent with a former HP student and faculty. The remainder of the year was spent with Max Ramsey, the club president at HP.

David Del Re

David is an extremely intelligent and outgoing individual whose personality and outgoing nature would be a credit to any class. In his short stay here, he got into the system of doing things and was shocked but dedicated to find out any clubs and activities open to students. David joined the speech team and not only became its president but he also has competed in more contests than any other HP student. David recently won his second degree in the National Forensic League.

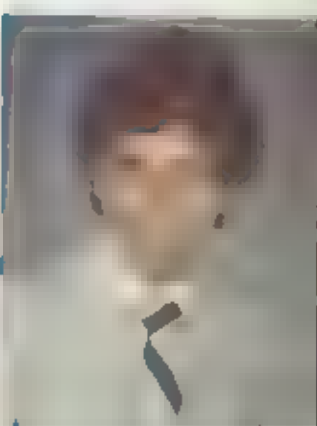

When asked if he missed home, he replied in his own British accent, "Not at all, so he went on to say that it was worth it that he was accustomed to traveling having spent time in England visiting his mother's relatives. Like his British accent, any student who comes here to be English rather than Italian. Regarding the HP staff, David got the stories of his travels from answering and filled with insight to everyone here who is asked and that so many are proud to be a part of it.

For those who excelled in sport their mark of distinction was the lettermen jacket or lettergirl jacket. The investment in dollars ($62.50) was nothing compared to the hours and effort it took to earn the right to wear the jacket.

Class of 82 Looses Powder Puff for 2nd Time

Winning the 1982 Powerpuff game was something to look forward to for most senior girls. After last year's loss, the team, consisting of basically the same girls, still held their heads up and looked forward to the 1982 game. Both teams worked hard during practices, sweating it out, rain or shine. Through all this only one side would win and neither team was about to give up. The longer the practices, the more plays there were to learn, with more plays came strategies and hard strenuous work but everyone stuck with it.

When February 23 rolled around the field was decorated in powder blues and vivid reds representing both classes. The game got rolling with all the pulling of pony tails and fists in the stomach, neither side could score. As the time clock crept toward the end of the first half, luck was going with the junior team and granted them a touchdown making the score 7 to 0 in their favor.

Halftime was an important part of the game. It was to crown the new Powder Puff King. The competition was steep but the lucky winner was Ricardo Chavarria. As soon as the crowning ceremony finished, the second half began.

With a bit more pushing and shoving, the junior team scored again making it 14 for the juniors, 0 for the seniors. Passes made by both quarterbacks, Gracie Guzman, and Adela Galicia weren't carried far enough to the goal line by receivers Charlotte Sutton and Virginia Romero. The game proceeded when the ball was almost intercepted by Minerva Jimenez which gave the seniors hope that they could still win. Then it happened. Virginia Romero scored with a touchdown for the senior team leaving the final score at 14 — juniors, 7 — seniors.

The game was great. Each team made their own victories. The juniors had the score and the seniors had their memories.

▲ Before Ricardo Chavarria was announced 1982 Powderpuff king, his mom, Mrs. Chavarria had already walked out onto the field and started taking her own home pictures. When the school photographer started shooting Mrs. Chavarria joined Rick's escort Laurie Parks, Rick, and Ms. O'Hanlon.

◀ Charlotte Sutton carries the ball away from junior, Sandra Garcia to give the senior team another chance at 1st down during the last few minutes of the fourth quarter.

PRIVATE EYES

A Look Behind the Scenes

"I wondered, sometimes, if anybody truly realized how much energy we all put out to get things done; if they knew how much work some of us did to get dances, class trips, and even yearbooks and newspapers put together. I suppose we had the interest and the school needed our services. When it came down to it, though all we really wanted was for everything to go right, and it didn't matter if seniors knew where their jerseys came from, or if they understood how a noontime activity was organized. As long as they appreciated it all and had a good time. That was our only paycheck and somehow it was enough."

— Dean Maxwell

▲ Jorge De La Cruz — President of Y G A D — was involved in the March of Dimes Super walk. He volunteered to give free blood pressure tests to the senior citizens at their concert at Westover Hall. He made Y G A D presentations at San Diego and Long Beach State Universities.

Each 'undercover Senior' had a reason for giving so much time and energy to the school. Their services made HP a more pleasant place to spend each day. It was their unseen organization that helped the administration in keeping the school on its feet.

All the little things that were done required so much work. Much more than could have ever been comprehended by the average student. Take, for instance, the Prom fashion show. It took an entire month to organize. Rosemary Chacon, Sara Gallegos, and Patricia Negrete, three Senior reps, had to find male and female models in the Senior class to be in the show. When they finally had enough people, they had to find the clothes.

What a hassle! After that, they had to arrange for entertainment. They contacted a few HP alumni, a couple of senior guys (Robert Martinez and Eddie Zumbado) to play guitar, and two senior girls (Charlotte Sutton and Class President Rosemary Ponce) along with Junior Rita Sutton, to perform 'We Got The Beat' by the Go-Gos. It took a lot of work that went by unnoticed.

Another group of seniors belonged to the Youth Gives A Damn (YGAD) Coalition. President Jorge De La Cruz was heavily involved in the 'Reach Out' program where he administered 800 blood tests. A few days later he gave 200 more BP tests during a concert for Senior Citizens at Westover Hall. He also took part in the March of Dimes SILENTWALK. In continuing the YGAD crusade, he made presentations to health classes at Long Beach and San Diego State Universities. Other Senior YGADers: George Miramontes, Gladys Morales, Eida Paz, and Curtis Moc. Each of these Seniors gave up uncountable hours of their free time in order to keep YGAD going strong.

After a couple of years of not having a journalism class, Huntington Park High reinstated one. Two seniors, Ingrid Bautista and Marlene Mura, typed all of the copy and they weren't even formally enrolled in the class. These were students that had an interest. They put all of their heart into their work and it truly benefited the school.

When it came to auditorium assemblies, Stage Crew members Carlos Teran and Clemente Garcia always made sure that the stage was set. Although they worked behind the scenes, they consistently made it a point to keep the spotlight shining on the proper spot at the right time.

For the first time in over fifteen years, Huntington Park High School hosted a foreign exchange student. Staying with Ms. Ramsey, HP's College Advisor and her family, David Del Re, a student from a town in Northern Italy, fit into the Spartan Lifestyle almost instantaneously. It took less than two weeks to realize that the only way he would be able to get his lunch each day, was to patiently wait for the fourth period dismissal bell and sprint to the lunch lines. When he finally learned the ins and outs of the daily routine, he looked into the deeper aspects of American high school life. He found an interest in the campus Speech Club. Participating in more contests than any other member, he was later elected President. David also spent his first semester on the Spartan Shield.

It was a coming together of talents and interests that made the 1981-82 Senior Year worthwhile. Although the amount of students participating and helping in the responsibilities behind Senior events was small, in comparison to the total number of Seniors in the entire class, the year still went well. Sometimes it was a little unorganized. And other times it was too organized. But either way, it was always worthwhile and that was enough.

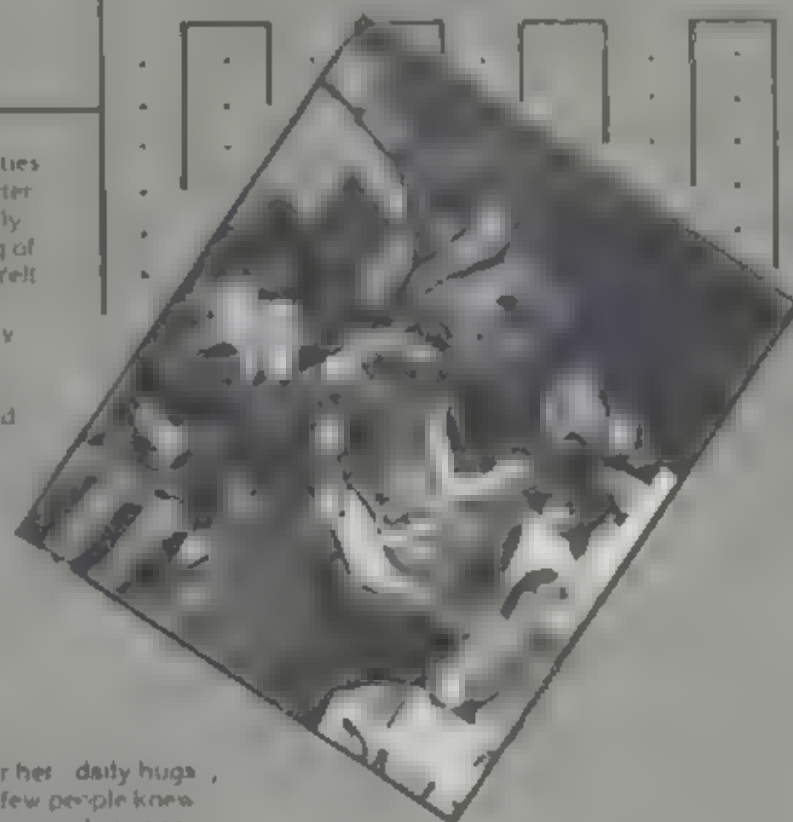

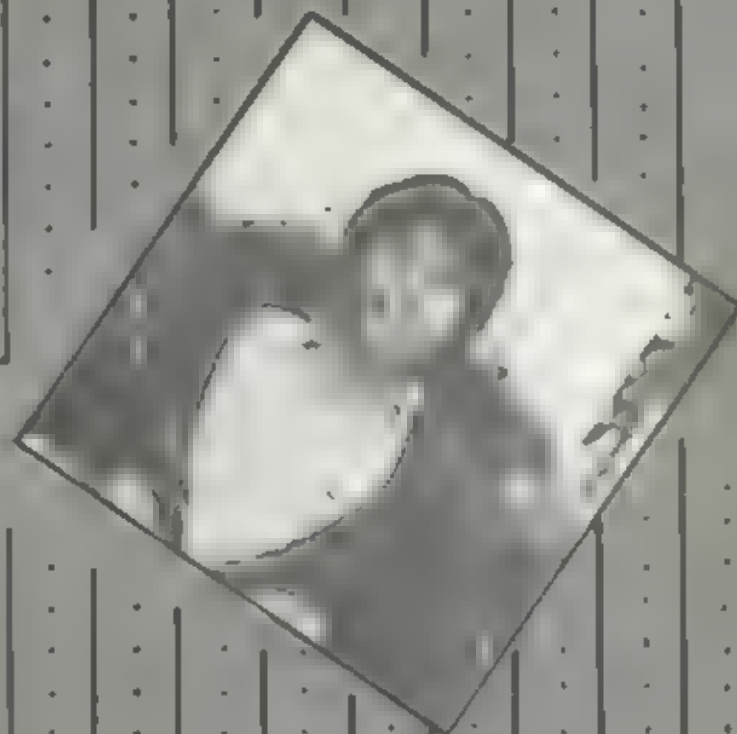

▲ He was constantly helping people. Whenever anyone needed help, Sal Lopez was always willing to give his assistance. As Leadership Clerk, he quite often finished his work early and went on to do even more. Sal kept the marquee, out in front of the school, up day to day, better than any other past student at HP had ever done. As a Senior, Sal would graduate on June 29th, but some energetic young Freshmen would surely come along, and follow in his footsteps — those of a true Spartan.

► Ernie Corpuz was a supporter. If the Seniors had a water balloon loss, there was Ernie, getting soaked and loving every minute of it. In his junior year, he was a class rep. During a fund raising bake sale, Ernie borrowed his parents' car to carry a cooler over so other classmates could store punch in it. Everyone else forgot to bring the punch. Ernie parked the car and stayed anyway to help sell cookies.

► Cheerleading, joining in nighttime activities going to dances, and sticking around afterwards to help clean up. Donna continuously involved herself at HP. From the beginning of her junior year, Donna, a 1980-81 Varsity Jelt Leader, shared her spirit and interest with anyone that was willing to accept her crazy way of getting things done. Donna was a 1981-82 Varsity Cheerleader and Track B President, as well. Outrigger, spirited and forever coming — always Donna Dunbar.

◀ facing page

Although Judy Galvan was best known for her daily hugs, there was a serious side to her that only a few people knew about. As captain of HP's Drill Team, Judy was always so proud of her girls. In the event that something wasn't working out properly, Judy's concern became evident in her eyes. Judy took her responsibilities extremely seriously. When the E.S.L. sponsored the Spring Fling Dance, Judy, President of the organization, recruited more people to help decorate and stay to clean up afterwards than had ever been expected. Judy's likeable character made her Senior year the best ever.

PROM: It Was The Heat Of The Moment

On Monday morning, May 12, the attendance of fice was packed full of seniors. Two lines sprouting out each door, made their way, in opposite directions down the corridor of the administration building. Seniors were waiting for readmittance slips for the previous Friday. Some of them had stayed home and slept in, others went out to pick up tuxedos, gowns, flowers, and most of them spent some time in a hair salon. There were so many things to remember; so much time spent getting ready and to top it off, everyone's nerves were at the breaking point. It was Friday, May 9, 1982, and HP seniors were about to experience the most magical evening of their high school years. They were about to attend their prom

After their whole day of near pandemonium, seniors slowly but surely began filling the lobby of the Bonaventure Hotel. A quick right after entering through the main doors pointed you in the direction of the San Diego-San Jose ballroom, but very few seniors went directly to the ballroom. Some gazed at the enormous pegasus statues that were complemented by rings of appleblossoms. Of course, the seniors daringly rode the scenic elevators that carried them thirty one floors above the street for a glittering display of downtown Los Angeles and its surroundings sparking for as far as the eye could see

Prison Theme

There always seemed to be a line to take prom pictures and everyone tried to make the best of it. As

In the dance hall it was a way or wheel
 for cars were literally happening and like we've got the beat by the cars and
 I really want one baby by the Harlan road it. There were girls being carried on the shoulders of their dates while others danced in lines it was really just for

SENDER FROM

And When the House Lights Came on . . .

It Was Over . . . we didn't want to leave

Alas . . . The evening rapidly came to a close. Hair-do's had fallen and clothes were wrinkled. It seemed that the Prom had come and gone much too quickly but everyone seemed satisfied with the results and glad they had come. In fact, it was one of the only proms on record where people didn't want to leave. The remainder of the evening was spent strolling down the beach in Malibu or maybe a hamburger at Tommy's or partying at Alex Kozasky's house till the wee hours of the morning. The idea was to stay out as late as possible, and by 4 a.m. most everyone was safely home.

Without a doubt, the prom theme "The Best of Times" uniquely described the fun. It had been the most extravagant evening of the three years at HP. A long time would pass before the memories would even begin to fade, if indeed they ever would.

A Turn of the Tassel

When I was a little girl, I asked my mom if I could jump off the roof. She said that if I did, I would get hurt. I didn't jump off the roof." This line taken from Senior Class President, Rosemary Ponce's Graduation Speech illustrated how our parents were our first leaders. She went on to say that our teachers also led us. And finally, she explained that — upon graduating from high school, we would then be our own leaders — independent adults. This was one aspect of graduation. For each candidate, there were so many other achievements and even goals that the ceremony finalized.

On June 29, 1982, young men and women dressed in blue caps and gowns, began filling into the first eleven rows of the Terrace Theatre at Long Beach Civic Auditorium. The time was about 10:00 am and the Royal Crusaders, HP's Senior Class of 1982, were about to graduate. Or as Principal Marjorie O'Hanlon suggested "You are about to enter the world of Huntington Park High Alumni's."

The ceremony opened the Pledge of Allegiance led by Rosemary Ponce, followed by the National Anthem performed by students Cesar Carrasco and Armando Jimenez on trumpets. Choir leader Mr. Monte Andrews accompanied on piano.

Next came the first of six student speakers. Silvia Pino spoke on what was beyond Graduation. Maria Celina Garcia reminisced all that had built up to Graduation. Dean Maxwell explained that happiness — at whatever position of society, would be the most valuable key to life. All three based their speeches on the class motto "We Have Been Led Now Let Us Lead"

Before the next part of the program, Rosemary Ponce and Dean Maxwell presented three certificates of recognition to Mr. Sugarmen, Mr. Sachs, and Mr. Perakis. Mr. Sugarmen was not present to accept the surprise awards, but the other two were called on to the stage and congratulated for their many long years of service to HP and its students. They were retiring. As the Seniors were moving on these men, too, were entering a new phase of their lives.

Soon after, came a selection of music from the Choir. Then Ms. Joan Ramsey, college advisor made her way to the podium from her seat on stage.

to recognize seniors for their awards and when Ms. Ramsey finished, the last three student speakers began their turns. Crystal Reed pushed the fact that the baton of responsibilities, once held by our elders would now be handed over to the graduating Seniors. Glafira Tinoco spoke on how we would have to keep our eyes open for pitfalls in life and how we must avoid them, finally Rosemary Ponce. How they instructed and guided us. She explained how we would now be our own leaders.

Another musical selection followed. This time, though, it was performed by the Chorus and led by Ms. Carol Skinner

The program then continued with a presentation from Ms. Sue Dutra, Senior class sponsor. To conclude was Ms. O'Hanlon. Her speech was not only enlightening, but sensitive, as well. The crowd was silent throughout her address. As principal, she had a remarkable talent of working with students. It didn't matter how busy Ms. O'Hanlon was, she always had time for personal interest

As the ceremony carried on, the Roll Call of the graduates drew near. Presenting the diplomas were Ms. Betty McGowan, Head Counselor; Dr. John Turco, Assistant Principal, Mr. Jack Roberts, Administrative Dean and Ms. Marjorie O'Hanlon, Huntington Park High School Principal. Calling names were Mr. Samuel Hoyos, Counselor and Mr. Raul Moreno, Assistant Principal, and Ms. Jesterina Bailey, Assistant Principal.

Upon hearing their names called, the graduates strolled across the stage, pausing in the center to shake Ms. O'Hanlon's hand. Some Seniors gave her a big hug.

After all the names were called, Class President, Rosemary Ponce went to the podium and accepted the diplomas for all four hundred ninety Graduates. She stayed at the microphone as the five other speakers joined her. Together with the Graduates and their guests, they all sang HP's Alma Mater. Then the moment came; Rosemary instructed all those dressed in cap and gown to turn their tassels to their right sides. Huntington Park High Schools Senior Class of 1982 was graduated.

Throughout the theater, Edward Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance" gradually intensified. The Graduates stood at their seats and then filed out the side doors.

Outside, on the terrace, the graduates had to meet their record room teachers at a designated area, to pick up their diplomas. This system was set up to avoid confusion on stage during the ceremony. Instead it caused havoc afterwards. It was a bit confusing, but worth the effort in the end.

When it was all over and everyone had received their diplomas, the tears began to roll. Students that had gone to school for years were having to say good-bye to each other — forever.

This was, perhaps, the most moving part of the day. And maybe even the most memorable one at that.

The Junior class this year sponsored some pretty fantastic events. One of the best activities was Homecoming. The Juniors put all their Spartan spirit into the Homecoming dance, staying until 2:30 am clearing it up. Who I never forget the ingenious male Cheerleaders that cheered on the Junior team to win the powder-puff game. Their sponsors were Penny King and Sylvia a Conine.

Stevens Studios for their outstanding photo service — one beyond any compare. Thanks, Spencer, we really appreciate your work. Ms. Ellen Rodgers for her excellent artwork. Mr. McCann for his support and perfect book keeping.

Marco Centeno for selling our advertisements.

Judy Rejos for her assistance in the I D sections.

Marcus Kalland for his copy writing.

Pat Gordon and the 'night crew' for keeping their eyes on us during 'late-night deadlines.'

Our financial supporters in the community.

Mr. Geilenfeldt for his supply of 'you know what's.'

Our parents for their support and patience.

Our little black book for teaching us how to spell!

ZZZZZZZ . . . pica-pica-pica . . . ZZZ . . . 50% blackground screen . . . ZZZZ . . . croppers-croppers-croppers-croppers — Ah!!! . . . I think we've drempt, ate, lived, and even fantacized about yearbooks for the past few months.

Ms. Miller, Pat and Vilma . . . thank you. I suppose we are the only people apart from mad staffers on other campuses that will ever know how much time and energy we have put forth in getting the book together.

When I think about how we did the book — I feel like I'm going a bit mad. I know it has all been worth it, though. Pat ty, your work on the Sports section is beyond compare. With Annalee setting it up, and you finishing it, our coaches and teams can only be happy with the finished product. And to put the cherry on your yearbook sundae, you picked up the unfinished faculty and Ad sections, and finished them. Don't you ever get tired?

Vilma . . . or can I just say Bill . . . I'll bet you would have trouble trying to total up the many layouts you have done. Well, I'll make it easy for you . . . Don't think layouts — think sections . . . all eight of them. The four I'd sections . . . Faculty, Sports, Clubs and even the closing that took fifty six captions. I'm beginning to think you run on solar power.

Ms. Miller . . . I can't think of specifics when it comes to you. All I can picture is you working on everything — ALL THE TIME! I especially like working with you. When we did the color, student life, and Senior Memories, you showed me, so much. If I ever use the skills I have learned, I will always credit you for instructing me. It's so hard to believe that we are finally done with the book, July 30, 1982.

When we open the covers of our 1982 El Recuerdo thirty years from now, I hope we still remember how much fun, how aggravating, and how crazy it was working on it. I'll never forget the month after our graduation that we came back to school, day after day, finishing up.

With a year round schedule, we worked under unusual circumstances. I'm really happy with the 'Reaching', because in a sense we have reached. In an awkward situation, we have tried and done our best.

I want to, again thank my staff members. Perhaps I have been a bit selfish in naming so few of you, but I really want you all to know that our effort has been worthwhile; to truly know how much I appreciate all you have done, and to understand that I will never forget you or your year as 'mad staffers'.

Yearbook students of Huntington Park High School designed the 1982 El Recuerdo.

On a budget of $21,000, 800 copies were printed at Taylor Publishing Company in El Paso, Texas, under the direction of Stephen Eddy. Copies were sold at $18.00 each. Typestyles used were Korinna for copy and Garmond for Headlines. Bound between an embossed black rubbed cover were 272 100 lb. enamel pages — 48 of which were 4-color. Number 78 spot color was used throughout the opening signature. Arctic Blue heavy texture paper was used on the endsheets. Developing of color and b/w pictures were processed by 'Jay in the darkroom' at Stevens Studios in Placentia, California. Photographs were taken by Spencer Pendergrass and Kurt Jupin from Stevens and El Recuerdo staff Photographers. Senior Portraits were taken by Steve Henderson and Joe Barnett of Stevens Studios.

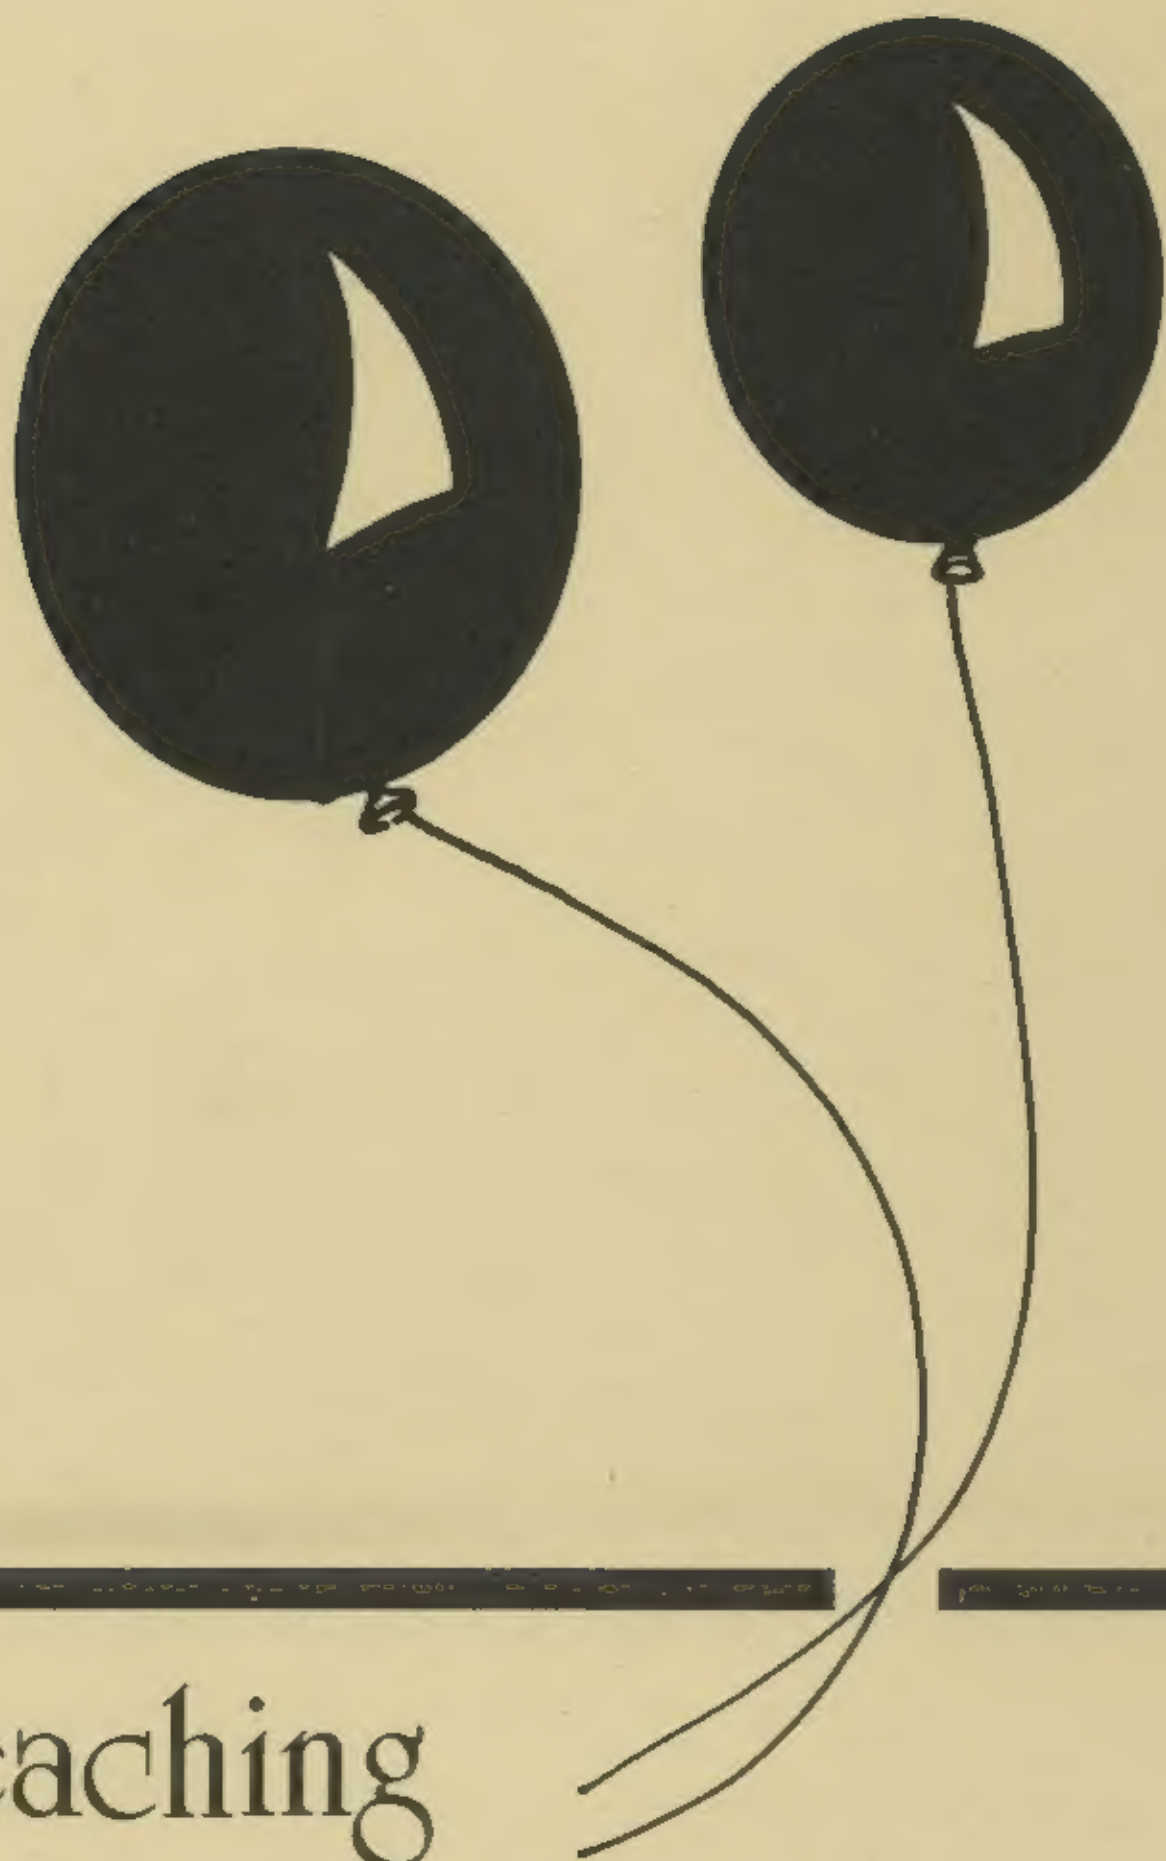

“H.P. High School was on a year-round schedule. We were pushed to make the best of the most difficult school year ever presented to us. The only way to get through the year was to REACH out and make it work. We did.”

— Dean Maxwell,
Editor-in-Chief

“Given the dream, the desire, and the devotion, nothing is impossible. Thank you Vilma, Pat, and Dean, for making the yearbook possible.”

Advisor
